EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR'S health is improving.

PATTI, the world's greatest songstress, was married last week in Europe.

GLADSTONE addresses his constituents as "gentlemen." That's sufficiently democratic even for America.

THE best things in the Parliamentary debates on the Home Rule bill were uttered by Labuchere and Gladstone.

THE State College base ball nine played to win and won not only the game, but also an unenviable reputation.

THE New York Herald is authority for the statement that Matthew S. Quay has personally announced his candidacy for the United States Senate.

ANARCHIST MOST has been made managing editor of a bellows in the prison on Blackwell's Island. So he will continue the business of dealing in wind.

THE Republicans won the best part of the contest in Oregon, as they elected Republican Congressmen, who are of more use just now than a Republican Governor would be.

GLASS-WORKERS are happy in having a two-months' holiday during the heated term. Matters are in a pretty healthy condition when men can make enough in ten months to live on twelve months.

IF Dan Lamont could be spared he would in all likelihood be appointed to some first-class diplomatic position. His is one of the cases in which a man's everlasting usefulness in a small position bars his progress to a greater one.

WE think any citizen, however honorable he may be, should be proud to accept the nomination for the Presidency of the United States. Geo. W. Childs, of Philadelphia, should not so premptorily decline to permit his name to be used in this connection.

THE latest and most striking exhibition of race prejudice has cropped out in Vincennes, Indiana, where eight white girls refuse to graduate with one colored girl. What a painful predicament these girls will be in after death; or do they suppose that heaven is divided by the color line.

Now, that one of our Bellefonte exchanges is convinced that Governor Pattison cannot be renominated for Governor of Pennsylvania, it will perhaps be as well satisfied at the prospect that the Governor will receive the nomination for President. He would be about as easy to defeat for President as any man that could be named.

WHAT a spectacle the gifted advocate of free ships, Mr. Dunn, presented in the House Friday, drawing two missing pages of manuscript from his desk, both of them containing the credit for part of his May 23 speech. Queer that the two missing pages should both be credits, the one for extracts from Poulett Thompson, the other from Leone Levi.

THE new liquor law enacted by the Ohio Legislature during its recent session is so practical and effective in its operation that the liquor interest will make a strong effort to have it declared unconstitutional, and, failing in that, to procure its repeal. An act more complicated in its terms or more difficult of enforcement would in all probability have been quietly ignored.

How pleased we should be that the spirit of religious prejudice which largely brought about the riots in Belfast does not exist in any degree in the United States. In this country there is a feeling of respect and affection between Catholics and Protestants. Neither would think of taking advantage of the other. This is as it should be, and we fail to understand the situation of affairs in Belfast.

THE fifth section of the resolutions adopted by the Republicans of Franklin county, this State, is a sensible one. It reads: "The question of the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors by amendment of the State Constitution should not be made a partisan question, but should be submitted by the Legislature and decided by the people at a special election for the purpose, free from all other complications and issues."

Stanton Vindicated.

The country will be disposed to deal lightly with the offense of General Wheeler, seeing that it has been the occasion of bringing to light the noble letter written by the great War Secretary to his friend and preceptor, the Rev. Hammond Dyer. It is a long time since so valuable a contribution to the history of the rebellion has been made. The letter, written in confidence to a dear and trusted friend, lays bare the inmost thoughts of the writer. And what a lofty patriotism is thus disclosed. The old Roman spirit, the passionate, inflexible, incorruptible devotion to the Republic which we are accustomed, perhaps with half unconscious irony, to associate only with the antique world, breathes from every line of this epistle. It is at once an answer to the sordid abuse with which the man, while living, was assailed by a self-seeking, corrupt, narrow-minded crew, and an explanation of the alleged eccentricities which often perplexed those who thought they knew him best.

The safety of the Union was the one object of his labors. Everything else sank into insignificance beside that. "In a struggle like this," he writes, "justice or credit to individuals is as dust in the balance." Yet no man sought more strenuously to execute justice, and no man, as he shows in this letter, could have co-operated more loyally with a general in whose plans he had little confidence. The ring of truth is in his declaration that he never thwarted or embarrassed McClellan, and that he only interfered with the latter's arrangements when it became evident that the General had disobeyed the explicit orders of the Government, and had left Washington virtually undefended at a juncture when a rebel descent upon the capital was both probable and possible. Stanton denies with righteous scorn and indignation the imputations of his enemies, but he declares that he had counted the cost of his undertaking from the first. "I knew," he says, "that everything "I cherish and hold dear would "be sacrificed by accepting office. "But I thought I might help to save the "country, and for that I was willing to "perish." He repudiates the idea that "he had any office in view. If I wanted "to be a politician or a candidate for any "office," he writes, "would I stand be"tween the Treasury and the robbers "who are howling around me? Would "I provoke and stand against the whole "newspaper gang in the country, or every "party, who to sell news would imperil a "battle?"

There is no choice of phrases in this man. He cares nothing for men, everything for the cause of the Union. That he should have made swarms of enemies was of course inevitable; as inevitable as that his full merits should be but slowly recognized. For Stanton was a patriot of so firm and indomitable a character that his purity and singlemindedness belittled and humiliated the crowd of greedy egotists who pushed to the doors of the Treasury, and the same qualities even obscured the greatness of all but the greatest of his contemporaries. When the names of Lincoln and Grant have been written there is no other that deserves to be linked with that of Stanton. He was a Heaven-sent Minister, if ever there was one. Carnot, the organizer of battles, was less to France in the crisis of the Revolution than our War Secretary was to the salvation of the Union. So just, so pure, so incorruptible, so patriotic was he, that it seems almost a work of supererogation to attempt the defence of his memory against the base aspersions of the Confederate brigadier who "with his darkness durst affront this light." The letter which Mr. Kelley read is alone more than a sufficient vindication of the traduced statesman. It carries us into a higher plane than men like General Wheeler can breathe upon. It honors us with the intimate confidence of a soul which could afford to disregard the spite of men, having taken for its standard from the beginning the judgment of God.

THE Belfast riots are a disgrace to the city and the age we live in. It is incredible that political and religious prejudice should lead to such inexcusable bloodshed. It can well be believed, as our dispatches assert, that the mob which has kept the city in a state of terror for three days, and has battled with the police, is composed of the lowest class of ruffians obtainable in the city. Home rule may be the excuse for these outrages, but this is no more the actuating cause than the labor troubles were for the Anarchist outbreak in the west of this country. The thugs of society always stand ready to seize upon any pretext for an uprising during which they can plunder and destroy.

A Clumsy Critic Criticised.

A memorial address delivered in Galesburg, Ill., by William F. Bailey, was published complete in the newspapers of that city and was noticed by the Tribune and Times of Chicago, which termed it a master-piece of the English language. As an elegant bit of literature it was replete in figures of speech and flowers of oratory. There are some people, we regret to say, who cannot understand these figures of speech and are all at sea when the ordinary verbiage of every day expression is departed from. This seems to have been the case with the editor of the Democratic Watchman when the following paragraph was singled out for comment in its columns:

"Comrades, the boys are gathering "over there." At the head of the column is the quenchless spirit of John Brown, the first martyr of the Rebellion That immortal spirit which rose, phœnix like, from the mountain top at Harper's Ferry, and led our armies like a pillar of fire through four years of carnage to final victory."

The "innocent" of the Watchman at once concluded that the orator, in this paragraph, made John Brown more prominent than any of the Generals of the war in leading the Union armies to victory, and could not see that the quenchless spirit of John Brown typified the eternal spirit of patriotism was certainly the inspiring influence of the war. It was the same spirit of patriotism, that animated John Brown, which, over and above mere human instrumentality, or all human instrumentalities combined, gave our arms the victory. This no one will deny, and this any one except a blunderer will see is what the speaker expressed.

The address was delivered to an audience of 2,000 people. It was not meant to detract from the honor of anyone, but following the tendency of the day in its thought on that subject, it extolled the spirit of patriotism rather than any single patriot—doing so in language original and beautiful. But the Watchman don't admire patriotism of any kind. Its hide-bound partisanism and Rebel sympathy have contracted its always small mind to such minute proportions that all vestige of liberality has already disappeared.

Which is It?

Miss Cleveland has written another book. This time it is a novel. But what is its title?

Several of our exchanges are laboring under the supposition that the title of the book is "The Long Row," and as such have been guessing as to its contents. One or two ventured the suggestion that the book treats of the Democratic party and relates the circumstances attending the long row which that party has kept up for twenty-five years past. Indeed, this would be appropriate when we consider that the history of Democracy has been but one long continuous row, sometimes almost approaching a riot.

But the point of this joke is knocked into "smithereens" by a review of the book in the Philadelphia Press, under the title of "The Long Run." The Press describes it as a story of a very ordinary kind in which true love wins in "the long run."

But even with this title may it not have reference to the long run made by Democratic candidates for the Presidency? Truly, the brother of the authoress had to run about as long as any of them, and he won the race and reached the goal only by 1200 votes. If any one understands all about the long run that person is the President's maiden sister, and if true love is certain to win in the long run, perhaps the public will hear of another wedding in the near future, in which Miss Cleveland will be the bride.

THE story that General Winston, our minister to Persia, resigned because the American Government refused to send a gunboat up the Bosphorus to fire a lot of salutes at Constantinople, where he at that time thought of being married, is highly improbable. Winston has too much Chicago sense to take offense at a little thing like that. Besides that, he knows that we haven't a gunboat on hand that can fire a salute without being kicked clear out of the water and into the next county by the recoil of her cannon.

GOV. ABBETT, of New Jersey, has invented a cable car with a compressed-air motor. It is adjusted that unused political booms can be chopped up and worked into the propelling power. It ought to have a big run in New Jersey.

Looking for a Candidate.

Our friends, the Democrats, don't seem to have any members of their party who are big enough or little enough to fit as a candidate for Governor. The trouble is Democrats are not made of assorted sizes and they are all too near the same dimensions. When you come to look around the field is full of them. They cannot be counted on the fingers because ten fingers are not sufficient. But the trouble is that no one overtops the others. All have equal claims and each one spends all his time scheming to represent his right to the office as greater than that of the others.

There are Powderly, Wallace, Randall and Scott. Powderly is in such a position that he cannot accept the nomination, and to resign his office would lose him the respect of many of those with whom he is now strongest. So he is out of the question.

Wallace, it is believed, would poll a full party vote. But he would divide party lines so exactly that no Republican votes would be gained by the Democrats. This would ensure Democratic defeat.

Randall is so opposed by Democrats outside the State that he cannot afford to make the enemies at home that the nomination would surely bring him. It is believed that it is his duty to remain in Congress and make himself solid at home by lending a helping hand to others.

Scott has been such a chronic candidate for every office in the State all his life since he was 21 years old that it is accepted as a safe conclusion that he can never be nominated or elected for anything. If a little "taffy" is given him occasionally he will be all right.

Then there are numerous other candidates, among them Hon. Andrew Gregg Curtin and Ex-Judge John Orvis of this county. Curtin is supposed to have some claim on the labor vote because of his connection with the Congressional Labor Investigating Committee. But there is so much uncertainty in the State at large as to whether he is really a Democrat that there is no spontaneous uprising in his favor.

Judge Orvis scarcely considers the use of his name as serious. When he casts his eye over the field he sees that the chances are decidedly slim, and don't encourage his admirers to place their hopes on him.

All in all, the outlook for Democracy is bad. They should put an advertisement in the DAILY NEWS: "Wanted—A real live, strong candidate for Governor on the Democratic ticket."

THE Arkansas Republicans have called a convention to consider the expediency of nominating a ticket to be voted for at the autumn election. For some years past the Republicans in this State have been virtually out of politics and have hardly gone to the trouble of making a campaign. There was a time when Arkansas was a Republican State, but with the suppression of the negro vote and the establishment of the new Democratic system of fraud and intimidation, the Republican leaders were driven out of public life. The only hope which they now have of coming again to the front is in the possibility of dissensions among their opponents. The Democrats in Arkansas, as in the rest of the Southern States, cannot have their own way forever, and the time is not far distant when they will break simply through their own preponderance.

Curtin in Clinton County.

A "countryman" of Clinton county does not believe that Governor Curtin will secure the support of that county for the nomination for Congress He says:

Senator Peale has announced himself as a candidate for Congress, and will certainly carry the county, while Rankin and his friends who promised it to Curtin, in consideration of Rankin's appointment as Postmaster, will point their guns against Caldwell who helped to secure his appointment, and magnanimously forget their promise to Curtin.

IT looks as though there had been a rather complete revival of the old-time Guffey faction in the Democratic politics of Westmoreland county. This is all smooth enough until the people come to express their opinion of it at the polls in November. It will be one of the curious things in the politics of this year if that usually Democratic county does not again send to the Legislature a complete Republican delegation.

The Poor and the Church.

In the Age of Steel we find the following strong words, which, we greatly fear, are too true: "There can be no mistake in the trend of opinion on this point. The poor are not at home in our ecclesiastical temples. With a personal reverence for the house of God that has made a sailor's Bethel in a rope walk, in spite of tar and broken windows, more awe-inspiring than the sacred stones of Westminster Abbey I have been driven to the woods with my Testament to escape the mockery of seeing the poor snubbed and sat down upon by arrogance with a shirt stud and vanity with feathers on an empty head and silk to cover a bloodless heart. It goes with the telling that brother Dives has got a "corner" on church privileges, a state of things perhaps not so common as popular prejudice makes it, but fatal in its issues as involving moral ruin. The Sunday side of labor has many spires, and will have more when, under the weather vane, there is less of pride in the pew and more of common sense in the pulpit. The question of Sunday labor is being increasingly agitated, and will presently involve the best of Christian statesmanship in meeting the public demand on its duties. It must counteract the beer garden, and the Sunday picnic, or the nation will be dumped into lager and licentiousness. The religious side of the question is most vital of all. If able to live on the plane of its sublime verities, it can lift labor to its levels, and much of so called necessary Sunday labor will dissappear; but, as it is, to save a kid shoe it will pay a car driver, cigar stores flourish near church doors, and the newsboy has a Sunday bonus on a deacon's pocket. This decay of conscience is general. The Sunday labor agitation may recall some old virtues, with less of milk and more of muscle in the sleeve, and labor securing its rights to rest may not have to wake up the Christian church to find a room for an unexpected lodger."

No June has seen a better prospect for a prosperous trade in the near future for years past than June, 1886. Crops promise better than in any year for four, and on many products the largest yield on record per acre and in total is probable, Stocks of manufactured articles have not been smaller since the boom of 1879 drove mills night and day in 1880 to keep up with the demand. The aggregate consumption of the great staples of manufacture, iron, cotton and wool, has been larger in the first six months of 1886 than in any recent years. During the past half-year the output of manufactured article has been so large that it is within bounds to say that the aggregate paid out in the manufacturing industries has never been larger in spite of the interruptions of strikes.

IT is now proposed to ask the President to pardon James D. Fish, who was in partnership with Ferdinand Ward in many eccentric financial transactions in New York. Both Ward and Fish are now in jail, and they have richly earned a long term each. Upon what ground it is proposed to plead for the pardon of Fish it can not be learned, but his friends who are urging the movement are said to include a majority of the directors of the bank which he wrecked and several bank presidents. It is possible that Fish was a victim of Ward's trickery, but the circumstances as developed do not show that he was so innocent and inexperienced as to be easily taken in, even by so smart a young man as Ward.

DR. HOLMES continues to receive the highest honors that the English people can lavish upon a favored guest. Not since Longfellows's visit has any American received such testimony of affection and of enthusiastic admiration. At a dinner, given in his honor by the great surgeon, Sir. Henry Thompson, Dr. Holmes recently met such a notable company as Mr. Gladstone, John Morley, Robert Browning, the Right Hon. Sir. James Hannen, Judge of the Court of Probate; Alma Tadema and Du Maurier, the artists, and Sir. James Paget and Ernest Hart, the eminent medical writers. Dr. Holmes has now gone on a visit to Tennyson at the laureate's island home.

THE manifesto of Mr. Gladstone to the Midlothian constituency is short, concise and clear. It presents the question of Home Rule in a way that will impress every reader with his sincerity, his generosity to the Irish, his devotion to real liberal principles and his fidelity to the crown. His address will rally to his standard the Irish, the English radicals and the sound Liberals in every portion of the Kingdom. The plan of Home Rule, as presented by Mr. Gladstone, is so much more honest and feasible than the weak, dilatory and dangerous plan of Lord Salisbury, that the people are pretty sure to accept it as the only one worthy of trying.

GENERAL NOTES.

In the Arctic region there are 762 kinds of flowers.

A man in Matoon, Ill., has a peony plant over 60 years old.

Onions from Egypt are now hawked in the streets of Boston.

In Philadelphia there is one licensed drinking saloon to every 29 voters.

Doctors in China charge 5 to 10 cents a visit and are said to be kept exceedingly busy.

Against poison—so far as has been hitherto ascertained,—the elephant is practically proof.

Street peddlers in Louisville are selling what they call sneezeless snuff. It cheers, but does not intoxicate.

Several trained rats attract crowds in front of a store in Danville, Ill., by catching flies in a show window.

The artesian wells, it is believed, will some day convert the arid-slaked plains of Texas into a fruitful region.

A scarcity of $1 and $2 notes in New Haven, Conn., is causing much inconvenience to the local business people.

Very warm, light blankets and feather cloth are now made from the waste feathers of domestic fowl and game birds.

The area sown in wheat in Manitoba this year, is 450,000 acres, which it is estimated, will produce 11,250,000 bushels of grain.

Over 100 works written within the past century have placed the time for the beginning of the millenium between 1885 and 1890.

A Texas physician claims to have found the microbes of dengue fever, and that the disease can be avoided by vaccinating with attenuated virus.

A Tallahassee merchant who began business over three years ago has not been absent from his store a single day, often having his mid-day meal sent to him.

Since the Springfield, Mass., public library became free the number of books taken out has been multiplied by three, although the yearly charge was previously $1.

Worms of somewhat uncommon species, and which the sparrows do not seem to relish, are destroying the elms on private and public grounds in New York City and vicinity.

It has been discovered by Joseph Knight that women's parts on the stage ceased to be played by men at a time anterior to that which is in general assumed to have been the case.

A citizen of Grand Rapids, Mich., claims to have a razor used by Father Marquette in 1678. It was dug up from an Indian grave near Harbor Springs, and is pretty well preserved.

The question has come before the Board of Education, Jackson, Michigan, whether a school teacher has a right to send a pupil home or put him in quarantine for eating raw onions.

A Roman Catholic church is to be built at Jerusalem, in which masses will be said daily for the dead and dying throughout Christendom. It is to be called the "Chapel of the Dead."

Among a lot of tramps that were run in by the police at Dallas, Tex., the other day, there was found an escaped murderer and convict, for whose capture there was a standing offer of $1,000.

The young Prince of Thurin and Taxis, who attends at present the University of Wurzburg, has his lectures, like his meals, brought to his room, even the rector of the university stooping to call on him.

Glass plates have been substituted for copper in the sheathing of an Italian ship, the advantage claimed being exemption from oxidation and incrustation. The glass was cut in plates to fit the hull.

Gold coins to the value of $700, the latest date on any of them being 1861, were found in a pail under a barn floor on Wednesday at Suspension Bridge, N. Y., by workmen who were demolishing the structure.

A woodchopper from Dauphin county, this State, who is 82 years of age, is said to cut three cords of wood daily, do his own cooking, &c., (he lives alone), and to seem as hale and cheerful as if he were a man of 40.

John Worden, of Grand Rapids, recently received the appointment of naval cadet. Since the appointment the lad has been exercising vigorously, hemorrhages have followed, and he is lying in a critical condition.

Governor Alger, of Michigan, has presented a fan to each girl graduate of the Adrian Industrial Home who was perfect in deportment for the month of April, and a clock to each girl who had a perfect record for April and May.

The physicians of St. Joe county, Ind., have entered into an agreement not to bid on the work of doctoring the poor of the several townships, but propose, instead, to allow each individual to call on whatever physician he may prefer.

James Kelly, of Marshall, Mich., 28 years old, played ball Sunday evening until he was completely exhausted. Then he drank freely of ice water, and a few minutes later fell dead. The physician charged the death to "heart disease."

People who throw rice at weddings need to be told that the has recently resulted, in London, in injuring a bridegroom's eyes to such an extent that he has had to pass in the ward of a hospital what would have been his honeymoon.

A good old story on its rounds again: A Yankee woman while visiting England was complimented by a British officer upon her English, and asked if she was not peculiar in this respect among her countrywomen. "Oh, yes," she replied with nonchalance; "but then, I have had unusual advantages. There was an English missionary stationed near my tribe."

Poetry.

PRESENTIMENTS.

There is no heart in the singing,
There is no scent in the flower;
Who knows what the moment is bringing?
Who whispers the word of the hour?

How long is the time and how dreary!
How far are the wars, and how fell!
Of song book and music weary,
She is weary of life as well.

She turns to her true love's letter
With eyes that are heavy and dim,
And life is a cruel fetter
That keeps her apart from him.

Could she but know of his being—
Her lover, her husband, her own!
Oh, for the touch, for the seeing,
And oh, for the silent tone!

What were life worth her without him?
Ah if he fall in the fight,
Then her joys were the grave clouds about him,
And her day were darker than night.

She shudders at coming disaster,
And the hound shakes, too, in his place—
The hound who grieves for his master,
Who grieves for the grief in her face.

And the shadow looks in at the casement,
And sees, with his dead man's eyes,
The gentle spirit's abasement
In a cloud of longing and sighs—

The shadow of coming sorrow
To fall with a woeful weight,
When the latter word of the morrow
Shall tell of the battle's fate.

But the word is still unspoken,
And she knows not, with tears unshed,
That her heart is already broken,
And her hero is stark and dead.

THE OLD FARMER.

BY ALLAN BANE.

Not much of this world's goods have I,
Still less of classic lore,
I envy not yon rich man's wealth,
With all his gilded store.

My acres yield me daily bread.
And toil brings appetite;
I plow, I sow, I reap and mow,
Then sweetly sleep at night,

No carking care to break my rest,
Nor aspirations high;
I plod along from day to day
With no regret ul sigh.

'Tis little that I can bestow
Upon the suffering poor,
But none that ever asked for bread
Went hungry from my door.

And thus my days move on apace;
The end is drawing near;
With cheerful hope I'll say "good bye"
To all I hold most dear.

And when this body's mouldering—
A well I know it must—
Let not tall monume ts be reared
To mark my sleeping dust.

I only want a marble plain,
For passers-by to scan,
And read all I would have them know—
"Here lies an honest man."

PIONEER, O. Toledo Blade,

Our Story Teller.

A HELPMEET INDEED.

Just on the confines of one of our manufacturing towns, there stands an imposing residence of brown stone, elevated by terraces above the road, surrounded by stately trees, and with an extent of garden stretching on all sides.

I had been employed in panel-painting one of the large bedrooms for some weeks, and my curiosity and interest had been excited by the fact that the master of the house, Joseph Randall, was a tall, handsome man of less than fifty years, while his wife was certainly twenty years older, a feeble old woman

Yet never were any young couple more seemingly devoted than this oddly contrasted pair; and I, living in the house, with constant occupation there, certainly had good opportunity for witnessing any matrimonial differences, had any existed.

When my work was done I returned to my own home, and several months later, by quite an accident, not necessary to record here, I learned the story of Mr. Randall's marriage.

From early boyhood he was a "ne'er-do-well." Money ran through his fingers like sand, and his father, his grandfather, and his uncle had each started him in business, only to end in failure, the family decided that he would never be good for anything.

He was a very handsome man, with a college education, the instincts and manners of a gentleman, and kindly in feeling; but he was good natured, trustful, and too easy influenced by whoever took the trouble to dictate to him.

At thirty he found himself bankrupt, out of business, and without any definite prospects; and while he was seriously considering suicide as a way out of his difficulties, he received an invitation to visit an old friend in Grantley, a pretty village near the sea.

He found Grantley at the height of its summer season, and his own attractions very readily acknowledged by the ladies, who danced with him, flirted with him, and strolled on the beach by moonlight with him, and accepted his graceful attentions with smiling pleasure.

It was here that he was introduced to Miss Susan Harte and her niece and supposed heiress, Miss Maude Maxwell.

They were ladies of position, refined and graceful; the younger one lovely in the freshness of her youth, a pretty blonde face, and slender figure; the older one stately and dignified, showing in every word a cultivated intellect and strong common sense.

Rob White, Mr. Randall's friend, after the introduction, spoke his mind with frank if vulgar freedom.

"Go in for the heiress, Joe. They say the old lady is worth a quarter of a million, and Miss Maude is her only relative. Anyone can see that they are devoted to each other."

And anyone could also see every evidence of wealth in their surroundings.

Their own carriage, with two magnificent horses, was with them for their daily use, their costumes were of the most costly materials, their jewelry was superb. A lady's maid attended them, and they occupied an entire suite of rooms at the only hotel.

Friendship led to intimacy, and Mr. Randall did try to fascinate the heiress, whose simpering prettiness covered a cold heart and a common-place mind.

To dress well, to be a centre of attraction for bowing beaux, were the objects of her ambition, and her conversation never rose above the level of the smallest of small talk.

Though he had always seemed to lack business ability, Mr. Randall was no fool, and he found himself evening after evening turning from Miss Maxwell's vapid talk to the fresh strong mind that shone through her aunt's conversation.

Miss Harte was an accomplished musician, with a rich contralto voice, and love of music had always amounted to a passion with Mr. Randall, so there was a strong bond of sympathy there.

The summer wore away pleasantly, and it was only when closed cottages and a deserted beach told of departing guests that Joseph Randall asked himself seriously how his summer flirtation was to end.

He was not a conceited man, yet Maude Maxwell had let him see very plainly that she had a preference for his society and attentions. Yet he shrank from the prospect of a wife with no idea above dress and gayety, however richly she might be dowered.

Loving neither, in the true sense of the word, he certainly found more pleasure in the society of the older lady, and then a little demon of policy whispered to him that, after all, the money was Miss Harte's, and, with her social position and real attractions, she might marry, and so deprive Maude of her supposed inheritance.

It was true that she was old enough to be his mother; but a handsome woman, and one so thoroughly tasteful in dress, could always appear younger than actual years warranted and—he liked her; yes, he certainly respected and liked her.

For two or three days he hesitated, shrinking yet from placing himself in the position of a fortune hunter, and then he wrote a manly tender letter to Miss Harte, asking her to be his wife.

He had sufficient tact to avoid flattery and not to make sickening protestations, and the letter bore the stamp of sincerity on every line. An hour later his messenger brought an answer, and Miss Harte was his affianced wife.

Escorting the ladies to their home, a magnificent country seat, Mr. Randall would not have been human had he not congratulated himself upon the future ownership of the wealth so lavishly represented all around him.

He had said nothing about the future position of Miss Maxwell, good naturedly willing that she should find still a home with her aunt; but he sometimes thought he would give her a hint about assuming so much the air of mistress of the house.

The wedding was magnificent, the honeymoon spent in traveling upon a wedding gift of a cheque from Mr. Randall's uncle; and one morning in cosy confidence, the subject of going home arose.

"Where have you taken rooms, dear?" Mrs. Randall asked; "or shall you go to housekeeping?"

"Rooms," cried the bridegroom, "shall you not return to your own house?"

"My own house! I have no house, Joe," for suddenly the truth flashed upon her; "did you think I had money? I thought every one knew that I was Maude's pensioner. Oh," and her face was very pale, "what a fool I have been! I thought that you loved me."

"You are no fool in thinking that," was the quick reply, as her husband put his arm around her; "I do love you. I did think the position reversed, and that Maude depended on you, but never doubt my love. If it was not very ardent when I proposed to you, it grows stronger every day that we spend together."

"But yet you thought me wealthy?"

"A humiliating fact I cannot, deny;" and then in a sudden outburst of confidence, Mr. Randall told his wife the whole truth, dwelling somewhat longer upon his business attempts and perplexities than on the hope he had entertained of a future life of luxurious idleness.

"When he had finished, his wife spoke:

"You may not like to hear my father's opinion of me, Joe, though he meant it to be a complimentary one. He always said I should have been a man, for I had a true business head.

"For ten years before he died he was paralyzed, and I was the actual head of his business, the weaving of carpets, in W ——. He left me a competency, which was stolen from me by a dishonest trustee; and I should have taken up some occupation to gain my own living had not Maud been left an orphan, and implored me to live with her.

"It was scarcely a life of dependence, for she needed me, and her lavish gifts of clothing and jewelry I accepted in the place of the salary anyone else in my place must have been paid. I was housekeeper and chaperon, and we were very happy; but I never dreamed that I was supposed to own her wealth.

"Now listen to my proposition:

"The factory my father controlled is closed, but I am an old friend of the owner, who carried on the business for a short time after my father died, and found his ignorance of the details swept away all profits. I will introduce you to him, and the sale of my diamonds will give us sufficient capital for a modest start.

"You will be nominal master, as my father was, until you conquer all the intricacies of the business gain, our old customers, and carry on the whole without assistance.

"Until then, let me direct and teach you, as I helped my father When you are a rich man"—and here Mrs. Randall's eyes grew dim with tender feeling—"you can buy me some more diamonds."

It was not a matter for hasty decision. Mr. Randall remembering his failures, was doubtful of his ability, but his wife had her way, and before their wedded life was six months old, Mr. Randall was engaged in his new business.

Spurred on by an honest shame that a woman had a better business head than his own, he did what he never done before—threw his whole soul into his business, and was amazed himself to find how soon he learned to guide it. He had never suspected he possessed such ability.

Every day filled his heart with deeper love for the noble woman who was so true and faithful a helpmate to him; who with all the knowledge he lacked, never let one clerk or employe guess her real position.

At home in the evening, she showed him the result of her day's correspondence or book-keeping, and gave him clear instructions for the next day's work.

And he, learning quickly, had sufficient sense to let her control the entire business, until she herself, after two years of faithful work, said:

"You can do without me, dear. I resign.

They had lived very economically in these two years, Mrs. Randall covering the small house and one servant as efficiently as she had controlled her niece's grand mansion or the affairs of the factory.

But ambition once roused in Joseph Randall he resolved to give his wife a home as handsome as the one she had left for love of him. Depriving her of no comfort he could afford to give her, he denied himself all extravagancies that had become second nature.

Cigars were thrown aside, clothing was reduced to respectability, ignoring the many charges of fashion, riding was exchanged for an occasional drive with Mrs. Randall, and year by year Joseph Randall saw his business increase, his bank account enlarge, until he was master of a flourishing business, and of the magnificent home where Mrs. Randall had employed me to paint the panels of the bed-room doors.

And as years robbed the devoted wife of her strength and the noble beauty of middle life, they took nothing from the love of a husband, who knew that to her he owed all his prosperity. He realized fully the life of indolent luxury he would have led, and contrasted it with the useful one to which she had guided him.

A kind master, the families of his work-people knew they had always a friend in the head of the vast establishment in which the husband and father toiled. Without children both Mr. and Mrs. Randall extended their charities far and wide, and when gratitude met them, Joseph Randall said:

"The thanks are yours, dear. But for you I should be that dreadful object, an aimless, indolent man of fashion, what in days gone by they called 'an old beau.'"

Equal to the Occasion.

Tramp (at door)—Madam, could you give me a little help? I'm one of the sufferers by the St. Cloud cyclone.

Lady—Why, how can that be? The cyclone only occurred yesterday. You couldn't have got here by this time.

Tramp—Oh, yes, I could, ma'am. You see, I was blown over by the cyclone.

An exchange says: "People with very fine complexions have been known to travel on their face." Yes, neighbor, you are right, for only last week we beheld a young man with a complexion as fair as a girl's take a header from a bicycle and travel about twenty feet on his face through a lot of gravel.

The great religion controversy is, not with no religion, but with false religion or formal religions.

Summer Pests.

If for forty-eight hours you can keep every drop of liquid from a room the flies in it will leave it. But the prohibition is absolute. A drop of dew on a rose leaf, still more the congealed breath on a window pane, gives quite as much fluid as the thirsty little fly will ask for. But the good housekeeper will remember this rule so as never to leave a pitcher of water uncovered in a room which she wishes to enjoy a nap in, or in which she means to place a guest. And she will carefully cover any other cup, mug, glass or other vessel which contains liquids.

Observe next, that the fly is a tropical insect, dislikes cold, and cannot bear it long. For the same reason probably, he is disconcerted, even on a warm day, by a draught of air. Dr. Franklin, you will remember, proved that a man might be killed, as if frozen to death, by a swift draught of air, even at the temperature of 100 degrees Fahrenheit. For practical purposes the fly knows this as well as Dr. Franklin did. So soon as your patient leaves a room, open the windows enough to start all the draughts possible. Have paper weights in abundance to keep books. Handkerchiefs or all other movables in place, that no one may have an excuse for closing the windows.

The old New England housekeeper supposes that flies dislike darkness, and the old treatment of summer rooms is to keep them dark when they are not occupied by men, women or children. But I think this is an error. The fly in darkness, simply recedes into his dens and caves and holes of the earth. So soon as the light comes he is out again seeking his prey. It may be observed also, that the apparent reason why he annoys your patient as he does, in the early morning, when no one else is awake or wants to be, is simply that he has been chilled at night and now seeks the warmth of the pillow or the cheek.

He is not at that moment seeking food. If you have been careless enough to permit any flies to sleep in the room with your patient, you can draw them to another corner of the room by lighting one or two kerosene lamps, with such an arrangement, for instance, as every oil stove gives.

You should not have had any flies in the bed room. Nor would you if the whole house had been kept in proper condition. If the establishment is large, the superintendent, if intelligent, will certainly detail a competent person early in the spring to the special business of keeping out the flies and seeing that no more are hatched. If you are in a private house, read this article to the housekeeper, and concert with her thorough measures, taking pains to interest and instruct the servants.

The Wicked Telephone Girl.

"Hello!" said the telephone girl after a long silence, when Rev. Abimelech Prigg had rung up the central station half a dozen times and was about giving it up as a bad job.

"Hello!" he replied in surly indignation. "Give me No. 111, Brother Bloomen, please."

"Hello!" came in due time. "Whom am I listening to?"

"Rev. Abimelech Prigg, my daughter.'

"Well, what do you wish to say, Father Prigg?"

"Are you alone?"

"Yes, sir."

"What time will your father return."

"About 5 o'clock, sir."

"Well, I will call—" here the telephone girl cut off the reverend gentleman, and instead of having the remainder of what he had to say, "—him up as soon as he returns." Miss Abigail got the answer of a young man whom the girl switched on in his stead, the young man being about to reply to an invitation by his loved one to "come over very soon," as follows:

"I'll be there in 10 minutes."

"What for?" Abigail asked in surprise.

"Oh, you know!"

"Indeed, I do not," she replied. "I should think I have a right to know why you are coming!"

"Well, don't be angry, my dear, and I will tell you."

"Well, proceed," she said stiffly.

"Well, then, to—to hug you and—and kiss you—"

"What!" she cried, angrily hanging up the receiver, and now her father has horse-whipped the preacher and he has been silenced and fired out of the church bodily, and all the city feels scandalized by his presence except the telephone girl, who is trying to get him out of the scrape and is being talked about in connection with him as a result.

No Hope of Compromise.

"My dear," cooed Mrs. Blinkins, as she laid her arm on her husband's shoulder last evening. "I was down town to-day and saw such a love of a——"

"What was the price of it?" interrupted Blinkins.

"Only $15, and it was awful cheap."

"Only $15! Why, Jones told me only to-day that his wife bought a lovely bonnet for $5."

"Do you suppose that I would be seen in church with a $5 bonnet? If you can't afford to buy your wife decent clothes you can get someone else to keep your house and baby, and I'll go to mother's."

"Oh, you will strike, will you?"

"Yes, I will, and I'll join the Knights of Labor, and never come back, never!"

"Can't we arbitrate the case, and compromise?"

"No, I won't compromise. If I can't choose my own bonnet I will go home and l-l-e-a-v-e-y-o-u—bo-hoo o-o——'

"Well, I might as well give in now as any time," sighed Blinkins, as he pass over his wallet and ended the interruption in his domestic affairs.

Alleged Humor.

"Le Diggs, here's an item I wish you would read to our landlady," remarked De Wiggs.

"What is it about?"

"About a man in Mississippi who sold a petrified chicken for $20."

"What do you want that read to her for?"

"Why, don't you see, if she finds out she can get $20 apiece for petrified chickens she won't serve any more up for diner."

"I hear that you were completely burned out, Bigfigger. Lost everything I suppose!"

"Oh, no! House gone, of course, but all my furniture and personal effects were saved. Everything in fact except the piano."

"Why wasn't that saved?"

"Because none of the firemen could play on it!"

Very often my son, it is the dread of punishment, rather than the punishment itself, that restrains us from evil doing. Many times a boy would gladly run away and go fishing on Sunday, if he could only get his father to thrash him in the morning before he sets out; then he could enjoy the whole long day without a pang. But when he has to wait until evening for it the dread of that unknown ill that awaits him clouds all his songs in minor keys.

In an argument with an irascible and not very learned man, Sydney Smith was victor, whereupon the defeated said, "If I had a son who was an idiot, I'd make a parson of him." Mr. Smith calmly replied, "Your father was of a different opinion."

Christina's baby is in hard luck. Hardly is born the heir to the throne than is thrown to the heir the sad intelligence that Don Carlos won't recognize its right to the crown. We have heard of men who were mean enough to steal gingerbread from a baby but Don Carlos goes one step further in meanness, and threatens to steal the little one's crown. Where is the baby that would not prefer gingerbread to a great heavy crown, which it could not get into its mouth if it tried for a whole week—which it certainly would.

Bad on Ben Le Fevre.

I heard a good story on Ben Le Fevre, illustrative of his lack of farming knowledge. Ben had bargained for a blooded cow at the sum $200, and as the drover was driving her to Ben's farm to deliver and get his money he met a gentleman who admired the animal and asked whether she was for sale. The drover replied that she had been sold to Gen. Le Fevre for $200. The gentleman replied that if any means could be devised to make Ben "rue" the bargain he would give $250 for her. The drover anxious to make $50, cudgeled his brain and, remembering the limited extent of Le Fevre's knowledge of farm animals, hit upon an expedient. He took the cow to Ben's house, where she was duly and admiringly paraded to an assemblage of friends gathered for the purpose "Come in and get your money," said Ben.

"General," replied the drover, "I am a good Democrat and your constituent, and want to deal fairly by you. The cow is all she is represented to be, thoroughbred and a good milker, but I am compelled to state that she is not exactly perfect."

"Why, what is the matter with her?" queried Le Fevre.

"Well, the fact is," replied the drover, "she has no upper front teeth!"

"Great heavens!" ejaculated the Congressman farmer. "No upper front teeth! That won't do at all, and I don't want her; in fact, I would not take her for a gift. Still you shall not lose anything. Here is a $5 bill for your trouble in driving here and back."

"All right," replied the drover, as he pocketed the V. "I don't want to take advantage of you, General, so good bye!" And away he went and sold the cow to the gentleman, clearing just $55 by the transaction. This joke was too good to keep. Imagine Big Ben's discomfiture when it leaked out and the disclosure was made that Ben did not know that cows and ruminating animals were never provided by nature with upper front teeth.—Chicago Herald.

Beecher's Sermon for One.

Beecher and Talmage are the most unaffected of men in their personal intercourse. I chanced to see them together at the office of a publisher who contemplated a joint issue of their sermons.

"Hellow, old fellow," said Beecher, "how are you?"

"First-rate," responded Talmage, grasping the extended hand," and how do you feel?"

Like living ten years to preach your funeral sermon."

Then they sat down for a chat, and were as jolly as schoolboys. Beecher and Talmage are favorites with newspaper reporters, because they give news frankly when they wish to, refuse politely when they don't, and never put on airs. Beecher is particularly conscientious in his intercourse with reporters. Quick to detect and resent any unfairness or trickery, he will go to great length to oblige a square man. Here is a small instance of his good nature.

A young reporter overslept one Sunday morning, and so missed the Plymouth church sermon which he had been assigned to summarize. He went perturbedly to Beecher's house and asked to see the manuscript. There was none other than a few words on a card: "But I'll help you out if you want no more than half a column," said Beecher; "get your pencil and paper ready," and, passing his hand over his brow as though to stir up his memory, he began to preach the discourse in condensed but animated form. That was probably the only sermon that he ever delivered to an audience of one.

A QUESTION ABOUT
Brown's Iron Bitters
ANSWERED.

The question has probably been asked thousands of times, "How can Brown's Iron Bitters cure everything?" Well, it doesn't. But it does cure any disease for which a reputable physician would prescribe IRON Physicians recognize iron as the best restorative agent known to the profession, and inquiry of any leading chemical firm will substantiate the assertion that there are more preparations of iron than of any other substance used in medicine. This shows conclusively that iron is acknowledged to be the most important factor in successful medical practice. It is, however, a remarkable fact, that prior to the discovery of BROWN'S IRON BITTERS no perfectly satisfactory iron combination had ever been found.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS does not injure the teeth, cause headache, or produce constipation—all other iron medicines do. BROWN'S IRON BITTERS cures Indigestion, Biliousness, Weakness, Dyspepsia, Malaria, Chills and Fevers, Tired Feeling, General Debility, Pain in the Side, Back or Limbs, Headache and Neuralgia—for all these ailments Iron is prescribed daily.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS, however, does not cure in a minute. Like all other thorough medicines, it acts slowly. When taken by men the first symptom of benefit is renewed energy. The muscles then become firmer, the digestion improves, the bowels are active. In women the effect is usually more rapid and marked. The eyes begin at once to brighten; the skin clears up; healthy color comes to the cheeks; nervousness disappears; functional derangements become regular, and if a nursing mother, abundant sustenance is supplied for the child. Remember Brown's Iron Bitters is the ONLY iron medicine that is not injurious. Physicians and Druggists recommend it.

How's Your Liver?

Is the Oriental salutation, knowing that good health cannot exist without a healthy Liver. When the Liver is torpid the Bowels are sluggish and constipated, the food lies in the stomach undigested, poisoning the blood; frequent headache ensues; a feeling of lassitude, despondency and nervousness indicate how the whole system is deranged. Simmons Liver Regulator has been the means of restoring more people to health and happiness by giving them a healthy Liver than any agency known on earth. It acts with extraordinary power and efficacy.

NEVER BEEN DISAPPOINTED.

As a general family remedy for Dyspepsia, Torpid Liver, Constipation, etc., I hardly ever use anything else, and have never been disappointed in the effect produced; it seems to be almost a perfect cure for all diseases of the Stomach and Bowels.

The Boss Parrot.

N. Y. Mail and Express.

Harry Newgarden a merchant of Indianapolis, is the proud possessor of a double yellow-head South American parrot, about five years old, which he claims he would not sell for love or money. It is known that he has refused several liberal offers. The bird was purchased when quite young from Bishop of Baltimore for $35 From early birddom the parrot seemed to possess rare imitative powers, marked with an unusual gift of speech, and at times it shows unusual intelligence. Mr. Newgarden is proprietor of a millinery store, opposite the transfer street car, in the central portion of the city, and the cries and shouts attendant upon the tranfer of passengers Polly has picked up with an accuracy calculated to make the superstitious believe the bird is bewitched. "Right this way," "Two more transfers," "Stop that car," and kindred expressions are common enough. That quarter of the city is also more or less thronged with newsboys, and some months ago Polly raised the neighbors by crying the daily papers until Mr. Newgarden was compelled to break up the habit on account of the urchins clustering about the door. The bird in its day has accumulated other follies, taking great delight in "Shoo, fly, don't bodder me," "Peek-a-boo, I see you hiding behind the chair," which it will scream out at most inappropriate times. "Emma, come here," is another favorite cry, whether Polly wants anything or not. "Oh, Georgie, you pretty girl, you," is still another. Sometimes, in great glee it will burst out, "Polly, can't you talk? Won't you talk?" and then it will chatter like a magpie. Frequently the customer is greeted with, "Ah, there! Shut the door," "Call again, please," "How d'ye do?" "Polly, shake hands," "Polly does your parent talk?" "Papa, scratch my head," besides all the little sentences usually credited to parrotology. Polly used to run down the alphabet from A to G, but now she seldom does more than cry "A B C," sometimes she reprimands herself by saying, "Bad Polly, bad girl," "Polly, are you bad?" usually ending it up in the negative. She has been known to reprimand Mr. Newgarden, and, in fact, the vagaries attributed to her ladyship would fill a book. She is, with a doubt, a gifted institution, and her owner says she is worth $500 a year to him in the customers attracted by reason of her presence.

Six Little Boys from School.

It was Freddy's first experience with soda water. Drinking his glass, with perhaps undue eagerness, he was aware of a tingling sensation in his nostrils. "How do you like it?" inquired his mother, who had stood treat. Freddy thought a moment, wrinkling his nose as he did so, and then observed: "It tastes like your foots was asleep."

Donald was discovered standing with his eyes full of wonder before a half-length picture of his grandfather (deceased) that had just been hung. After looking his fill he remarked: "He aint got no legs (a pause), but then, grandpa's in heaven, and I 'spose people in heaven don't need legs, 'cause they fly."

It was at the dinner table. His father was saying something to his mother about dynamite. "Oh," exclaimed Jack, looking across to Eloise with an evident desire to impress her with his acquirements, "I know what dynamite is." "What is it?" inquired Eloise. "It's something you blaspheme rocks with," Jack explained.

George is 4 years old. One day the youngster had been taken with a slight attack of prevarication, and, wishing to impress upon his infantile understanding the sinfulness of telling fibs, the father related the story about George Washington and his little hatchet, closing with the remark that George Washington was a good boy and never told a lie.

The child sat in deep thought a moment and then said:

"Papa, too dent he talk?"

A High School boy of Lawrence, Mass., went home last week delighted with the idea of a military drill about to be introduced into the school.

"I tell you," said he, pityingly, to his sister, "it pays to be a boy."

"Mr. Jones," said little Johnny to the gentleman who was making an afternoon call, "can whisky talk?"

"No, my child; however can you ask such a question?"

"Oh, nothing! Only ma said whisky was beginning to tell on you."

TWO LETTERS

One of our most intelligent Chester County customers writes us under date of Jan. 26th, as follows:

"Acidulated Rock shows bad effects. It permanently injures the soil and ultimately renders the ground almost worthless except to raise sorrel and other weeds."

Death of a Mad Monarch.

MUNICH, June 14. Ludwig, who was recently deposed from the Bavarian throne, committed suicide at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. He had gone out for a promenade in the park of the Berg castle, accompanied by Dr. Gudden, his physician. The King suddenly threw himself in Stamberg lake and was drowned. The physician jumped into the water to rescue the king and was also drowned.

The watch worn by King Ludwig, and which was on his person when his corpse was recoved from the lake, had stopped at 6:54 last evening. Dr. Muller and Hubert, the king's stewart, had the bodies of Ludwig and Dr. Gudden conveyed to the castle and placed on beds. Although there was neither any perceptible respiration nor pulse movement in either body, Dr. Muller and his assistants of the Ambulance corps attempted to restore animation in both and only ceased their efforts at resuscitation at midnight, when life was pronounced extinct in both.

King Ludwig's suicide has cast a deep gloom over Munich. Now it is seen plainly that the people were deeply attached to the king, and evidences are everywhere manifest of the popular sorrow caused by his tragic death.

At 10 o'clock this morning the generals of the Bavarian army met and took the oath of allegiance to King Ludwig's brother Otto, who at once assumed the title of King under the name of Otto I. He is three years younger than Ludwig was, having been born April 27, 1848. Otto, however, will be simply nominally King, as he is mentally incapable of government, and Prince Luthold, his uncle, will remain regent.

[Bavaria's eccentric king, Ludwig II., whose recent deposal because of insanity has been so soon followed by his tragic death, ascended the throne March 10, 1864, and was in his 41st year. He was long noted for his eccentricities, which culminated in the formal declaration of his mental incapacity by a counsel of physicians. His mental trouble was inherited, his mother and an uncle, her brother, having died insane. Two of the leading phases of his insanity were dislike of society or a fondness for seclusion, and the lavish expenditure of money on improvements to his castles. Although very popular with the people he was often pressed by his creditors.

Two years ago his uncle, Leopold (or Luitpold), who is now acting as regent, paid $750,000 in satisfaction of his nephew's debts. Since then the king made new debts, to the amount of $4,000,000 or $5,000,000. A regency was recently decided on at a council of Wittelsbach family, of which the dead king was a member. The latter never married. Prince Ludwig, eldest son of Prince Luitpold and cousin of the dead Ludwig, is the heir presumptive to the throne of Bavaria. Prince Otto, the brother of Ludwig I, is incapacitated for the succession.]

Mr. Morrison's Bill.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—Mr. Morrison, in an interview with a reporter of the Associated Press, to-day, said he would surely move to consider the tariff bill on Thursday. He said very candidly he could not speak positively as to the chances of success. It all depended on the votes of the New York democratic members. From the first the committee of ways and means was entirely harmonious and he could have brought in or called up the bill at any time since February but he had deemed it unsafe to do so, knowing that he could not succeed without New York. The fact that the bill was favored by the administration had led him to expect the nearly unanimous vote of its friends in that state, but he had finally determined to call up the bill without knowing more on the subject than he did at first, except that as he was encouraged by the late correspondence between the president and Secretary Manning. If the motion is defeated, he said, it will be by the votes of the democratic members in New York, when he might reasonably expect them to be with the administration.

The President's Summer Plans.

CHICAGO, June 13.—A special to the Journal from Washington says that President Cleveland and his bride have under serious consideration a proposition to make a tour of the lakes, with a select party of friends in a steamer, during the summer. As soon as Congress adjourns they intend to spend some time on the New England seacoast and mountain regions, thence go to the Adirondacks for a few days and thence to Buffalo, the old home of the President and his wife. It is proposed to leave Buffalo some time in August on a private steam yacht, which has been tendered the President and his party, and the trip will include Lakes Erie, Huron and Michigan, and possibly Superior, making stops at various points of interest. Chicago will be the farthest objective point of the trip. The plan now talked of may be changed or abandoned, but it is seriously contemplated and will probably be carried out.

Low Water.

PITTSBURG, June 14.—The mines along the Monongahela river are mostly shut down and unless there should be a rise in the river all will be idle by the end of the week. From five to six million bushels of coal are now ready to be sent out on the first water. Before natural gas was so generally used in the mills in this city, the demand for coal here was sufficient to keep a number of the works running. It was known among river men as the flat boat trade. This is almost a thing of the past now, and tow boatmen who found employment for their boats, have been forced into lower river trade, and are shipping coal to Cincinnati, St Louis and other points.

Solid for Beaver.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., June 15.—The Republican county convention held in the opera house here to-day, for the purpose of electing delegates to the state convention, which will be held in Harrisburg on the 30th inst., was one of the most enthusiastic and harmonious gatherings ever held in this county. H G Dumm, Esq., was elected chairman, and Jason Clarkson and R. M. Riddle, secretaries. The business of the convention was transacted with great dispatch. E. B. Orbison, of Orbisonia, was elected senatorial delegate, and George McAlevy, of this place, and Edward Keitley, of Franklin township, were elected representative delegates, each on the first ballot. The following resolutions were unanimously adopted, as the sense of the convention:

Resolved, That we as Republicans in county convention met and assembled do earnestly reaffirm our unfaltering belief and devotion to the great and leading principles of the Republican party; that we will earnestly and unitedly support the same as they may be represented by the platform and candidates of our coming state convention by our actions in securing the support and vote of the people during the coming gubernatorial contest in the full hope of assurance of pure ratification by their triumphant election in November next.

Resolved, That General James A. Beaver is our unanimous choice for governor, and if nominated, as we believe he should be, that we most earnestly endorse and respond to the same by using our efforts to secure for him a large and triumphant majority, and that our delegates this day elected are instructed to vote always and use all honorable means to secure such a nomination for him.

Resolved, That the delegates this day elected be instructed to cast their votes for Colonel Thomas Grimeson for auditor general, and to use the means in their power to secure his nomination.

Resolved, That our delegates this day elected be and they are hereby instructed to vote against the proposed change of representation in the state convention as set forth by the committee of which Colonel D. H. Hastings is chairman.

Two Drowning Accidents.

ST. LOUIS, June 14.—Patrick Stelman, a young man about twenty years of age, was drowned at the foot of Carr street about 11 o'clock last night. He, in company with Frank Walter and James Gannon, sat down on a pile of lumber at the edge of the river. In a short time he fell asleep, toppled over, dropped into the water, and never arose to the surface. The young men who were with him made an ineffectual attempt to secure his body.

HAZLETON, June 14.—Stanley Jacobs and Thomas Dolan, aged respectively 16 and 20 years, in company with seven companions went to Pond Lake, twenty-three miles from here yesterday, on a fishing excursion. While out on the water their boat capsized and Jacobs and Dolan were drowned. The others were secured by persons who were attracted by the cries for help. The two young men were sons of prominent citizens of this place. The bodies were recovered late last night.

A Tragedy.

NEW YORK, June 15.—This afternoon, a bell boy of the Sturtevant House, answered a call from room 25, occupied by Winfield Lee Compton, aged 24, and his wife, several years younger. They registered from Kansas City. When he wrapped at the door there was no response. After repeated rappings on the door with no response from within, a carpenter was sent for, and with his ax burst open the door. Both Compton and his wife lay side by side on the floor. She had been shot in the back of the head, and was dying when the attendants entered. He was conscious for a moment, and asked that a doctor be summoned. In his hand was a revolver. There were bullet wounds in his head and breast, but not necessarily fatal. An ambulance was sent for, but before it came the woman was dead. There are indications that the pair were on their wedding trip, and an inscription in her ring indicated that they had been married on June 2. The bell knob in the room was bloody, indicating that the shooting was done before the bell was rung.

A Private Bank Goes Under.

PITTSBURG, June 15.—A West Middlesex special says: Veach's bank, which was organized in 1866 under the name of the Miller and Miners' bank, closed its doors this morning. The cause of the failure is attributed to the shrinkage in the value of real property and to the inability to readily realize on their commercial paper. All the individual assets of the Veach's here are liable to the depositors; the laibilities amount to $100 000 and the assets are at present unknown. It is thought these may be ample to meet all demands. The dry goods store of J W. Veach & Sons was also closed to day on a writ of attachment for $10,000. The firm claim they have real estate and other property sufficient to meet all indebtedness if only given time.

Hoping for the Best.

PITTSBURGH, June 14.—The conference committee of the iron workers and manufacturers had a protracted session to-day considering the modified scale submitted by the Amalgamated association, but adjourned until to-morrow without reaching an agreement. While the manufacturers are not disposed to sign the scale as submitted, it is understood that there is a disposition on the part of both employer and employe to compromise differences and that to-morrow's session will be prolific of good results. No misunderstanding or acrimonious debates have taken place and both sides hope for the best.

Their First Reception.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The white house never presented a more brilliant spectacle than to-night on the occasion of the first official reception given by President and Mrs. Cleveland. The decorations were on the same grand scale as at the president's wedding, with the exception that there were more tropical plants and ferns and less flowers.

Big Fire at Allentown.

ALLENTOWN, PA., June 13—The large brick furniture factory of C. A. Darney & Co., with all the machinery, the tools of a hundred employes and a large quantity of lumber and unfinished furniture, were destroyed by fire this afternoon. Loss, $30,000; insurance, $4,000

Dry Goods.

The Dead King.

MUNICH, June 15.—Dr. Van Schleiss, who was formerly King Ludwig's physician, denies that the King was insane. He maintains that Ludwig was eccentric only. The doctor added that though he disagreed with the official report of the examining board of physicians declaring the King insane, still he felt compelled to keep his views to himself, "for," says he, "if I had published a statement in opposition to that of the court doctors, I should have shared the fate of certain other persons and been at least consigned to prison. My opinion as to the King's condition is based on my experience as his physician since his birth. My colleague, Dr. Gintl, agrees with me.

A Strike Broken.

PITTSBURG, June 15.—The strike of coal miners at New Bethlehem, Pa., is broken. The Oak Ridge miners have been running under the protection of the sheriff of Armstrong county, for several days. This morning the Fairmount mines also resumed with a heavy guard, furnished by the sheriff of Clarion county. These mines are now paying fifty-five cents per ton, ten cents less than the men came out for on the 17th of March. The strikes have used ever effort to get the men out at Oak Ridge, and in doing so, a number of their leaders were arrested for conspiracy, and bound over to court.

Not All Serene.

READING, Pa., June 15.—Grazer & Frame, the firm of cigar manufacturers who closed down six weeks ago, throwing three hundred hands out of employment, tried to resume to-day. Twelve cigar makers from Lancaster were driven to the factory in cabs and at noon they were taken in the same way to a leading hotel for dinner. A crowd of about four hundred people surrounded the factory and pursued the cabs through the streets crying "scabs," groaning and making other violent demonstratinos. Trouble is feared.

What the Senate Did.

WASHINGTON, June 15.—The senate today passed the Northern Pacific forfeiture bill—yeas 42, nays 1, Mr. Blair. The bill declares forfeited so much of the lands granted to that company as are co-terminus with that part of its main line which extends from Wallula Junction to Portland and that part of the Cascade branch which shall not have been completed at the date of the passage of this bill, and makes the right of way in the territories subject to taxation.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS.

Several Reasons why a School House Should Have No Halls in It.

Said a Professor, a man of considerable experience in that line—

1st. The teacher cannot properly admonish her own pupils when mixed up with children of another school. A hall furnishes a good chance for this condition.

2d. There is no place, said he, where there is so much mischief done as in the long dark hall of a school house.

3d. In case of fire, a hall is a bad place to empty several schools together.

4th. In case of any sudden alarm confusion is multiplied at once by several schools meeting together in the hall.

5th. There is every reason why each school should be isolated as much as convenience will admit.

I have often wondered why school houses are built with large halls in them, when it is possible to build the very largest of them and have a separate entrance to each room. But it appears that we may never hope for better things as long as architects and school directors are allowed to build school houses.

A Discovery Near Clearfield.

One of the "Clearfield Chips" in Altoona Tribune is as follows: "Two boys of Evans Miller, while hunting cows in the woods near this place, along the Beech Creek railroad, Saturday evening, came upon the body of a dead man. They raised an alarm and the decaying body was unearthed and a post mortem examination held by 'Squire Rowles. The verdict was to the effect that deceased had been murdered, as his throat was cut. He was a stranger and supposed to be an Italian. He was a middle aged man and wore a suit of working clothes, blue overalls, gray wool shirt, red hose and woolen drawers. The body had laid about two weeks according to the evidence before the inquest. It is known that two weeks ago a party of Italians were engaged in a quarrel in an old shanty near this place and were seen to leave there the same day."

All for Beaver.

In Washington county on Monday, the Republican convention adopted resolutions instructing the delegates to the State Convention, J. K. Billingsley, Brit Hart and E. F. Acheson, for General Beaver for Governor; indorsing the candidacy of Colonel C. W. Hazzard for Congress; approving the report of the State committee on the new rules, and favoring representation in the State Convention according to the Republican vote in each county. The course of Congressman O. L. Jackson, who received the instructions for renomination, was also indorsed.

The Republicans of Cumberland county, on Monday, did not adopt resolutions of any kind, but a dispatch says that one of the delegates is a red-hot Beaver man and the others will go for Beaver because he will be the only candidate. All of them will be for Colonel R. H. Thomas for Lieutenant Governor, if he will allow his name to go before the convention.

The Clarion county Republican convention met on Monday. H. L. Young and J. B. Patrick were elected delegates to the State Convention, with instructions for Beaver and Montooth, Grier, Norris and Hazzard.

The Gauge of Railroads.

Some one asked the Commercial of Pittsburg why the standard gauge of railroads is fixed at 4 feet 8½ inches and that paper gave the following reply:

"There is no scientific or any other reason for it except precedent and custom. In fact, all the scientific or practical considerations that can enter into the question are against it. When Mr. Stephenson built his first locomotive, he, for some reasons best known to himself, built it to the gauge of the old tramways—for vehicles drawn by horses—in England, which was 4 feet 8½ inches. That became what was known as the 'narrow gauge' in England, and was naturally followed in this country to a very great extent. Some of our roads have a gauge of 4 feet 8½ inches, others 4 feet 8½ inches, and still others 4 feet 9 inches. In England they have a 6-foot 'broad' gauge, and at one time, for a very little while, tried a 7-foot gauge. The Erie road, built originally by English capital, was at first a 6-foot gauge, but in 1876 the changing of it to 4 feet 8½ inches was begun, and now it is all of that gauge. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company uses a gauge of 4 feet 9 inches, because that is a compromise gauge between the former gauge of 4 feet 8½ inches on its eastern lines and 4 feet 10 inches on its roads west of Pittsburg. It would be well if the 4 feet 8½ inches gauge could be widened a little, to enable greater width of the fire boxes of locomotives, and consequently more powerful engines, such as it would be desirbale to employ."

A Charming Entertainment.

The Lutheran congregation, Miss Ohnmacht and all engaged in the musical and elocutionary entertainment given in Humes' Hall Tuesday evening are to be congratulated on its artistic merit and financial success. The audience was large, including the very best Bellefonte society, and those who remained away missed a rich treat. Each one of the musical numbers on the programme evinced the most elaborate and careful preparation.

Who can listen to the orchestra without being charmed? One can hear enrapured the entrancing strains and never weary. As for Mr. Steck in Shakespeare, he has the strong personality, the commanding figure, the dramatic fire and intensity to give a vivid and accurate interpretation of all the characters of that greatest of uninspired compositions. He acquitted himself nobly on this occasion and also scored a triumph in his impassioned reading of "Bernardo Del Carpio."

Miss Annie L. Grove is simply delightful. A pure contralto voice with all the graces of execution known to the schools, she nevertheless possesses that rare art of enunciating distinctly so that one can understand the words as well as the music. She is complete master of the piano and performed an instrumental solo. The lady is elegant in appearance and composed in manner.

The three tableaux were excellent and displayed taste in arranging them for the stage.

In the preparation of the tableaux Miss Ida Gerberich, Miss Ella Rhone and Mrs. L. A. Shaffer deserve great credit. More successful ones were never given in Bellefonte.

SPECIAL MENTION.

Exactly What is Sought After.

A safe, reliable, harmless, not repulsive remedy that can be taken without changing the regular diet or disorganizing the system; a simple vegetable compound assisting Nature to get rid of impurities in a gradual manner as Nature intended. Such is Simmons Liver Regulator, and a trial proves this to the most skeptical. Complete satisfaction is guaranteed, and certainly it is a satisfaction to find the head clear, the bowels regular, the blood purified and the breath sweet.

—In some parts of the county the subject of Canada thistles is engrossing the attention of farmers, and they are determined to entirely destroy the obnoxious weed. We are glad they are making efforts to rid the country of them, and in doing so they have the support of the law, the fine for permitting the Canada thistles to grow being quite heavy.

BUSINESS AGAIN.

Our terms are Cash, and positively no over thirty days to responsible parties.

Any farmer that is worthy of credit can borrow money at 6 per cent. and then pay the merchant cash, and save at least 20 per cent., and then if you buy goods at a cash store you don't pay for another man's credit. We have proven beyond question that you can save money by paying cash. A credit store can talk about selling their CASH CUSTOMERS cheap, but they can't do it, and a person with ordinary intelligence knows they can't, and any one that don't know why they can't, we can enlighten them upon the subject. Ringworm Humor and Salt-Rheum.

RAYNHAM, MASS., Aug. 12, 1878.

C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gentlemen— * * * * I have had ringworm humor and salt-rheum so badly that my body was covered with raw sores; so, also, my head and face. I have had any number of doctors in the last seven years, and none of them could cure me. One day my mother was in the city of Taunton, and found one of your cook books, and in reading it I found many people testifying to cures from the use of your Sarsaparilla and Olive Ointment. I felt forced to try it, although I had seen many things advertised that never did me any good. I have now taken two small bottles and one large one of Sarsaparilla, and used three boxes of Ointment. I now call myself cured. Nothing can be seen of the humor but the dim outlines of the sores. I shall take two more bottles, and then the cure will be complete.

I am gratefully yours,
EDGAR F. WHITMAN.

Biliousness, Sick Headache.

PITTSFIELD, MASS.

MESSRS. C. I. HOOD & Co.: Gents—Please send me by express two bottles HOOD'S SARSAPARILLA and a few Cook Books for distribution. Your preparation has worked wonders in the case of my wife, who has been troubled with sick headache and biliousness for years. She only took one-half teaspoonful at a dose, and has not been so well for five years as now. She found that within a week after taking it she felt very much better, and is now entirely free from those severe headaches. She has not taken any of any account since last spring, and what little she had is lent to do some others some good, and we must have it in the house.

Yours truly,

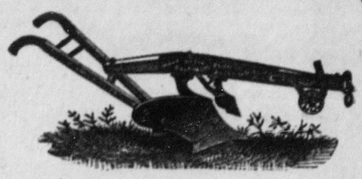
Farm Implements, and Fertilizers.

FARMERS SUPPLIES!

PLOWS.



Thorough plowing and pulverization of the soil is the foundation upon which the successful farmer builds his prosperity. To accomplish this, the character of the plow becomes a matter of the first importance. We present the

to our farmer friends with the assurance that it is not a new invention; nevertheless, it embodies all the improvements known to plow manufacturers. It has an established and enviable reputation, of MANY YEARS STANDING, as being the best bevel land side plow now in use. We assure our friends that a BEVEL LAND SIDE PLOW is superior to any straight land side plow.

The ROLAND CHILLED PLOW is manufactured of the best material, and is of the most perfect workmanship. The parts subject to wear are so chilled as to give strength as well as durability.

Its construction warrants light draft, and it runs so steady that a boy who can drive the team can man the plow—either for two or three horses—and execute the best mechanical plowing.

It will clean or scour in any soil from the start. It is furnished with solid or slip-pointed shares for ordinary or deep plowing. It is equally a successful plow in soft, hard or gravelly soil, and will turn a furrow up hill as complete as on the level ground.

We invite a critical examination of the construction of this plow as well as a thorough test in plowing.

We offer it for sale at remarkably low prices, and on liberal terms.

We keep a stock of shares and other parts for the OLIVER and SYRACUSE Chilled Plows.

CULTIVATORS.

—)THE(—

are the farmers favorite, and need no commendation from us. We are the authorized agents for their sale in this part of Centre county. The CHAMPION is the new Hench walking cultivator, a remarkably neat and well constructed implement, and is a credit to the skill and workmanship of these leading cultivator manufacturers. We invite those in want of cultivators to inspect those on exhibition at our store. We can assure our friends that there are no other cultivators in the market equal to the HENCH.

One-horse Cultivators and Shovel Plows that defy competition in prices.

HAY RAKES.

We are selling the CHAMPION horse hay rake for $16 50, and a better rake for $17.50. We sell the TIGER SELF-DUMP hay rake, which is the best hay rake in the world, at astonishingly low prices.

HAY TEDDERS.

The large crop of grass now growing, will be hard to handle unless farmers use hay tedders. The

BURDICK

HAY TEDDER is the BEST.

HAY FORKS! Double Harpoon Hay Forks. Price, $1.25 each.

GRAIN DRILLS.

We are the authorized agents for the sale of the CHAMPION and PENNSYLVANIA GRAIN DRILLS. These drills are complete in construction, and are guaranteed to sow grain, seed and fertilizers in the best farmer-like manner. We are prepared to furnish these drills at prices which will justify farmers in buying them. Farmers in want of drills will promote their interests by calling on us and examine the drills and prices for themselves.

Buggies and Platform Spring Wagons.

A customer after examining our spring wagons, a few days ago, said we had the best wagons for the least money he had seen in Centre county.

Auburn Road and Farm Wagons.

These wagons are made to our order; with steel skeins or steel axles, and we offer them to our customers with full confidence that they are the best wagons ever sold in this vicinity.

Fruit Evaporators. ☞ The outlook for a large crop of good fruit is very favorable. A fruit evaporator does not cost so much money, never heless, it can be made more profitable than a cider mill. An elegant opportunity for families of two or three boys to learn a new business and make some money. Call and examine the sample at our store.

FERTILIZERS.

We sell six grades of fertilizers; we assure the farmers of Centre county that we deal in no shoddy goods. In purchasing, the quality is our first consideration and we guarantee every grade of fertilizer we sell is of the quality represented.

CROCKERS' BUFFALO HONEST FERTILIZER

of which we are Sole Agents in this territory, needs no commendation at our hands. It has always realized to the farmer a fair equivalent for the money invested.

In addition to the above we have arranged for the balance of our stock with the Chemical Co. of Canton, located in a suburb of the city of Baltimore, Md.

This company is composed of the Bakers of Baltimore, who formerly conducted the business in their own name and is a house of undoubted reputation for furnishing exactly what they represent.

From this company we obtain five grades of fertilizers—

Dissolved South Carolina Bone,
Dissolved South Carolina Bone and Potash,
Soluable Alkaline Bone Phosphate,
Resurgam Guano and Bakers Standard Guano;

either of which is of the highest standard of quality in its class.

We sold this brand of DISSOLVED SOUTH CAROLINA BONE or ROCK in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania State College last fall—1885—in competition with two other brands, all of which were analyzed at that institution. The Rock we sold proved to be fifty eight cents per ton more valuable than one of its competitors, and four dollars and forty eight cents per ton more valuable than the other, all of which were sold to the farmers at about the same price. This fact should induce farmers to buy fertilizers from dealers who know what they are selling and have the common honesty to sell what they represent.

We invite a careful inspection of the quality of the fertilizers we offer for sale, as well as the prices of the same, including such information as we are always prepared to furnish thereto.

HYDHAULIC CEMENT.

We have been induced to enter into the cement business, for the reason that MR. WILLIAM SHORTLIDGE'S long connection with the Water Works of Bellefonte gave him an extended opportunity to see the effects of using poor and standard cements. We can assure our customers that the cements in which we deal are of uniform quality and of the highest standard of excellence.

We carry a stock of AKRON, ROSENDALE "Hoffman Brand," and the ENGLISH PORTLAND.

The AKRON has been manufactured during the last 60 years and has been used in the construction of some of the most elaborate Railroad bridges and reservoirs in the United States. Thomas Collins, the well known railroad contractor, informs us that he has used thousands of barrels of it, who recommends it as being a most excellent article. The AKRON cement is being used in the construction of the Croton aqueduct, which will convey water forty two miles to the city of New York. This of itself, is a sufficient guarantee of its superior quality.

We sell the ROSENDALE cement "Hoffman Brand," which is so well known that it needs no commendation at our hands. We keep in stock the ENGLISH PORTLAND cement, the best artificial cement in the world.

We exercise our best judgment in purchasing stock, and spare no efforts to furnish what we represent and trust the community will appreciate our motives by favoring us with a share of their patronage.

There is a growing practice of venders calling on farmers to sell them their supplies, who succeed in obtaining higher prices for what they sell, with dinner and horse feed thrown in, than the same articles can be purchased of us at our store. We invite farmers to investigate this matter, examine articles and prices before making up their minds to purchase. Visitors are ALWAYS WELCOME whether they buy or not, and WE TAKE PLEASURE IN EXHIBITING WHAT WE HAVE TO SELL.

Riot in Belfast.

BELFAST, June 9.—The Orangemen during their rioting last night wrecked one hundred houses in the city, two of which they burned. The rioters broke into several whisky stores and possessed themselves of the contents, and numbers of men fell into the gutters drunk and laid there. Others were made desperate or maudlin by drink and prowled about the streets. In the various assaults made by the police on the rioters twenty-five of the latter were severely wounded by buck-shot fired at them The police have been ordered to fire balls to-night in the event of any general renewal of the rioting.

The rioting was renewed this evening and the riot act was again read. The mob increased in size and began throwing stones at the police. The latter fired killing four persons, one of whom was a bar maid who was looking out of a tavern window at the fighting. The mob returned the fire and a brisk fusilade was kept up for twenty minutes. Soldiers are now parading the streets to assist the police in cases of necessity.

LATER.—The mob drove the force of 150 policemen into the barracks and then attacked the buildings, firing revolvers and throwing stones at the doors and windows, when the police fired, killing five persons. Several Protestant clergymen tried to disperse the mob, but their efforts were unavailing. One of the persons killed was a widow with three children.

Extensive Fire in Buffalo.

BUFFALO, June 10.—A fire broke out at 2 30 this morning in the Mozart variety theatre and saloon, Tohawanda. A brisk wind was blowing and the flames were carried to the large machine shops of Charles Gillie, which with outbuildings was destroyed. The flames swept on; engulfing Edins' ice house, Swinger's canal barn, Gehring's saloon, Hardmack's foundry, Sickle's saloon and Kohler's clothing store, and on North Canal St., Delaney's store and canal stable, Parker's saloon and Swinger's grocery. The citizens turned out and aided the firemen and saved the remnant of the block. Total loss estimated at $30,000; insurance believed to be very small. The body of an unknown man supposed to have been a boarder in an upper story of one of the buildings was found in the ruins, burned to a crisp. A fireman was severely injured by falling from a building. Origin of fire is unknown.

Jealous of New York.

CAICAGO, June 10.—Mr. Yerkes, the President of the North Chicago Railway, left for Philadelphia yesterday afternoon. Concerning the exposure of his Philadelphia career, he said yesterday, according to the Daily News: "I don't care much about it. The fact is I have read nearly all that Daily News story before. It reflects more on Philadelphia than it does on me. They have a loose way of doing city business there."

Before his departure Yerkes had a long conference with Mayor Harrison, and left at the latter's office an agreement not to operate the cables on North State streets if a majority of the property owners objected. Concerning this document the News says:

"What reliance can Mayor Harrison place in an agreement signed by an ex-convict, who, to secure his release from the Eastern Penitentiary of Pennsylvania, denied his own affidavits. It seems about time to reiterate to the Mayor of Chicago that a man is known by the company he keeps."

A State Reception.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—A state reception will be given by the President and Mrs. Cleveland on Tuesday evening next, to which the Cabinet, the Diplomatic Corps, the Judiciary, the Congress, the officers of the Army and Navy, the heads of certain bureaus and the ladies of their families, will be invited. The hours of the reception will be from 9 until 11 o'clock. A general reception, to which the public is invited without cards, will be given on the following Friday evening, June 18th, from 9 until 11 o'clock. Mrs. Cleveland will not be at home to callers until after the reception.

Governor Pattison's Appointments.

HARRISBURG, June 10.—Governor Pattison to-day made the following appointments: Robert McMahon, Pittsburg inspector of steam engines and boilers for Allegheny county, W. J. Sawyer, Pittsburg, Peter C. Swidel, Pittsburg, and J. Monroe Shellenberger, Doylestown, to be members of the board of public charity. The last two are appointed instead of Lewis Peterson and W. H. Davis, whose terms have expired. Sawyer was reappointed.

The Good Templars Adjourn.

WILLIAMSPORT, June 10.—The State convention of Good Templars closed this evening. R. D. Swoope, of Curwensville, was elected as an additional representative to the grand lodge. Rev. D. C. Babcock, of Philadelphia, was elected and installed as chief templar. The full list of minor officers were also elected for the ensuing year.

The Good Templars.

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa., June 9.—In to-day's convention of the Good Templars a lengthy discussion took place over the recommendations of the financial committee which were finally adopted Two representatives to the grand lodge were elected to-day, E. E. Kaye, of Pittsburg, and A. A. Stevens, of Tyrone.

Briefs.

PITTSBURG, Pa., June 9.—The employes of a number of furniture factories who struck recently for eight hours' work with ten hours' pay returned to work to-day at the old wages and hours.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—In the house to-day a bill was reported favorably increasing the limit of the cost of the public building at Williamsport, Pa., from $125,000 to $225,000.

LEWISTOWN, Me., June 9.—In the republican convention to-day J. R. Radwell received the nomination for governor on the first ballot. The convention then took a recess.

WASHINGTON, June 9.—The senate passed to-day the bill to legalize the incorporation of trades unions.

SWANSEA, Wales, June 9.—The civil marriage of Patti and Nicolini took place here to-day.

A Terrific Waterspout.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., June 10.—A water spout burst over Marshall day before yesterday afternoon, and the most terrific rain fell upon the surrounding country that has been witnessed within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. Houses fell before the advancing flood, cattle were swept away and drowned, and the country throughout the region round about were destroyed. A puny stream, known as Rigby run, ordinarily three or four feet wide, became a raging river, overflowing its banks and sweeping away everything movable that came within its reach. Fortunately, no loss of life is reported.

One of the most exciting incidents of the storm was the narrow escape of a train filled with passengers. Two or three small breaks in the track had occured before the train reached Asheville, but by proceeding cautiously they had been passed in safety. At Ashville your correspondent boarded the train. It was just 6 o'clock and the rain was pouring down in torrents. Progress was slow, the engineer narrowly scanning every foot of the track ahead before trusting the train upon it. Just before reaching Marshall, however, a part of the track slipped away almost in front of the advancing train. The brakes were applied and the train was brought to a standstill just in time. A consultation by the railroad officers was held, and it was decided to return to the last station.

Here, however, a fresh difficulty arose. A mountain stream which five minutes before the train had crossed in safety was now a raging torrent, piling driftwood, trees, house timbers and huge boulders upon the track in hopeless confusion. The road-bed was on the margin of the river, the turnpike road being on the other side, the mountain rising behind it. On the river side the embankment was rapidly crumbling away, and train officials and passengers fled in consternation. Already the track was covered, and the water was rising at the rate of six inches a minute.

Heavy logs were thrown crashing against the sides of the cars, threatening to push them from the track. Volunteers were called for and there was a generous response, all hands doing their best to clear away the obstructions. This done the engineer, Mr. Clark, bravely drove the train through the waters, over a track that was actually melting away, to a place of safety. Captain Murphy, the conductor, said afterwards that he had never spent such a moment of danger in all his years of railway experience.

The Mob and the Police.

BELFAST, June 11.—An Associated Press reporter who was detailed to remain on the scene of the riots at 5 o'clock this morning reported as follows: "I remained among the rioters all night. The greatest damage in the way of wrecking and shooting was done along the Shank Hill and the York roads. The fighting on both thoroughfares was desperate and continuous. The mob was composed of the lowest ruffians. The bayonets of the police had no terrors for them, and in many cases I saw the mob in overwhelming numbers press up against the bayonets of the police and drive them back. The only instances in which the police drove the mob at all, so far as I observed, were those in which the officers, in compact lines, fired in close range rapid volleys of buckshot. These the rioters could not stand against, and they were driven back. But even under such galling fire the rioters would drop to the pavements and rush upon the police while they were reloading.

"It is impossible to describe the state of terror under which the respectable Catholic people of Belfast are now living in consequence of the prevalent anarchy of bigotry. The bravest of them hardly dare to venture out of doors in daylight even. I know that scores of people were shot during last night's riots. I saw ten taken to hospitals this morning It is feared that every funeral of a victim of the riots may provoke a fresh outbreak. The law-abiding citizens demand of the government the appointment of a special commission to inquire into the causes of the whole disorder. Fighting of this kind at such close range as to be practically hand-to-hand was continued until 2 o'clock this morning, when twilight began to dawn and so many of the rioters disappeared as to leave the mob of insufficient strength to longer cope with the armed police, who succeeded in dispersing it.

"My observation shows that the mob of last night was composed of the very scum of Belfast. I saw members of it throw paving stones weighing fifteen and twenty pounds. I even saw fiends hurling rocks at the gallant firemen, who were imperiling their lives in attempts to save dwellings from destruction by incendiary fires and the inmates helpless from horrible deaths If anything else were wanted to prove the character of the mob it would be furnished by the dozens of ruffians I saw during the night sneaking away from wrecked or burning buildings, laden with loot."

The House Does Nothing.

WASHINGTON, June 11.—To-day nearly the entire session of the house was taken up with the discussion of the legislative appropriation bill without making much progress. When the civil service section was reached Mr. Morrison made a point of order against the provision changing the rules of the commission and pending decision the committee rose. Mr. Morrison gave notice that on Thursday next he would call up the tariff bill and Mr. McKinley, in behalf of the opponents of the measure, stated that he would resist its consideration. The house then took a recess till 8.30.

Eighteen Persons Poisoned.

LAWTON, Mich., June 11.—Eighteen persons were poisoned here Wednesday night by eating ice cream. The ice cream was prepared for the soldiers' reunion at Four Mile Lake. It was eaten at supper, and by mid-night all who partook freely were prostrated. All will recover.

Dr. Higbee Still in Charge.

HARRISBURG, June 11.—Dr. Higbee, state superintendent of soldiers' orphans' schools, has called a meeting of the managers and superintendents of the schools throughout the state, to be held in this city July 1. The object of the meeting is to discuss and arrange contracts for next year.

A Message of Encouragement.

SCRANTON, Pa., June 9.—The convention of the Ancient Order of Hibernians, now in session here, is considered to be one of the most important held for many years. The following cable dispatch was sent to Mr. Parnell last night:

"Bid Ireland be of good hope. Let the Irish Nationalists stand firmly by their colors. The Ancient Order of Hibernians of Pennsylvania in State convention assembled, pledge their kindred in Ireland united and generous support until Irish national independence is secured God hasten the day."

Through our luxurious and perverted modes of living, and from a score of causes besides, diseases of the kidneys and urinary organs are now among the most common and fatal in this country. Men suffer from them most frequently and most intensely. Their victims are falling by the wayside of life every day. Do you fear this end for yourself? If so, we can assure you of help by means of Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy."

Rupture

Dr. J. A. SHERMAN has returned from his trip to the City of Mexico and the West, and removed his office from 251 to 29 Broadway, New York. In Dr. Sherman's treatment there is no operation of any kind, no detention from labor, no danger of strangulated rupture, besides freedom from the injury trusses inflict. His Book, containing information and endorsements from Physicians, Clergymen, Merchants, Farmers and others who have been treated and cured, is mailed for 10 cents. Persons in circumstances to prevent them from availing themselves of Dr. Sherman' personal services should send for his home circular of advice and instruction. —Lawn tennis has temporarily given way to base ball.

—Sells Brothers' circus is hovering around in this vicinity.

—Mr. and Mrs. Sayre, of this place, are visiting friends in New York State.

—Frank Knarr has been appointed collector of borough taxes at Millheim.

—Mr. Benjamin Housel, of this place, wants work. He is a fence builder and can do any kind of manual labor.

—By all means, organize a rousing Beaver club to accompany the delegation from this place to the State convention on June 30.

—The Watchman remarks that the "Summer season is a little late." The truth is that the season is about three weeks earlier than usual.

—One of the best blacksmiths in this section is William Collins, who works for Andrew Harter. The shop is located along the Jacksonville road.

—The Centre Hall School board has decided to increase the school term to eight months. The highest grade is to be of the academic standard.

—William Bilger, a well-known blacksmith at Pleasant Gap, put up a fine lightning rod on property owned by Watson Struble at that place.

—"Saccharine" is a substance derived from the hydrocarbons of coal tar and is a substitute for sugar. It is about 230 sweeter them the best cane sugar.

—The word "oleomargarine" should be pronounced naturally. Do not pronounce the "g" as if it were a "j," but give it a hard sound as in Margaret.

—The Mikado supper given by the W. C. T. U. of Philipsburg, for the benefit of the Reliance Hose Company of that place, realized $300 free of all expense.

—There was not a quorum at the special meeting of council Wednesday evening. We understand that the amount of bonds that can be refunded is about $9,800.

—The Raftsman's Journal and the Clearfield Republican keep up quite an animated warfare in the columns of those papers, and the Journal generally comes out first best.

—Mr. F. Potts Green had new potatoes from his garden on Tuesday, the 8th. It used to be that the fourth of July was considered early enough to use the tubers, but Bellefonte druggists are usually ahead.

—On Tuesday morning, the 8th, Clyde, the young son of C. W. Hartman, of Millheim, fell from a table and broke his arm. This is the third accident of that kind which has occurred in Millheim in two weeks.

—We hear that Magdalene Calloway, little daughter of Mrs. Lizzie Calloway, had quite a frightful fall Thursday in the rear of her grandfather's residence. She was considerably bruised but no bones are broken and her injuries are not serious.

—Mrs. Charlotte Irvin died in Hollidaysburg on Thursday morning at 4.45 o'clock. The funeral occured on Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Hollidaysburg. The deceased lady was related to the Curtins and other families in this borough.

—It is with regret we hear of the illness of John Rankin, Jr., son of Joseph A. Rankin. John is an employe in the First National Bank and in all respects an excellent young man and we advise him for the benefit of his health to take a mid-summer rest and recreation.

—The flowers in the yard connected with Mrs. Brockerhoff's residence on Bishop street are very lovely. In the centre is a large bed which is filled with bright colored flowering plants, while flowers—principally white—extend along the side of the yard nearest the street.

—Bunnell & Aikens, the music dealers, are erecting a substantial and handsome iron railing around the open stairway leading down to the basement or cellar of their fine new building. The railing will be an ornament and will prevent any possibility of unsteady pedestrians falling into the open space.

—The Watchman, Friday morning, remarked that "cherries will be the next in market." Can it be that the Rip Van Winkle of the Watchman has been asleep during the past decade? Cherries have been in the market for weeks and the "next" thing you know they will be gone. It's the early bird that gets the cherries. Wake up!

—George Rowan, son of George Rowan who works at the nail works, was seriously hurt on Thursday evening while playing on the cars near Gerberich, Hale & Co.'s flouring mill. The little boy fell from the top of a box car and when taken home was thought to be in a critical condition. He was better this morning, but not out of danger.

—The commencement exercises of the Birmingham Seminary were held on Wednesday amid attending circumstances of the most favorable description. The presence of spectators was large and the exercises were very successful. Miss Aikens, daughter of Mr. J. A. Aikens of this place, bore off a large share of the honors of evening performance by her rendition of a vocal solo, "Last Honors of Joan of Arc."

Death of an Esteemed Lady.

It is with deep regret that we announce the death Thursday morning at 1 o'clock of Miss Catharine Elizabeth Dolan at her home on South Spring street, near the Friends' graveyard. This lady, although modest and retiring in disposition, was widely known and greatly esteemed, because of her usefulness and deep piety. Her death was caused by consumption. She continued in the busy rounds of a useful life as long as her failing health would permit, but about six months ago she was compelled to give up and await the coming of the last messenger, buoyed up by that steadfast faith which was an essential part of her profession and practice. Now her battle of life is ended. With departed saints she will be forever blessed and will rise to the full enjoyment of an always youthful immortality.

Miss Dolan was about 42 years of age. During at least fourteen years she was the organist in the Roman Catholic church of this place. Her father died many years ago. Her mother, Mrs. Catharine Dolan, still survives. Three brothers—Matthew, John and James—are also living. We believe that one sister, Susan, still survives, while two others, Mary and Ellen, preceded her to the grave. The death of Miss Dolan is deeply mourned.

The funeral services were held in the Roman Catholic church at 10 o'clock Saturday morning.

Unionville Items.

Copious showers have again given vegetation renewed vitality and the fruit is fast assuming shape.

Much complaint is made among the farmers that they can scarcely get their corn to grow on account of the birds and many taking it after it has sprouted.

The citizens of this place were suddenly aroused about eleven o'clock on last Saturday night by the cry of fire. Many men women and children hurried to the scene, but were too late to extinguish the flames. It was H. M. Kephart's stable in the northern part of the town. The cause of the fire we have not learned.

The railroad hands have gone to work on full time again and quite a renewed activity is noticable in the shipment of coal and other freight.

One of the three young men who left here about a month ago for Kansas has returned and reports work scarce and idle men more numerous there than here so concludes that old Pennsylvania with its great railroad, mining and manufacturing interests is the best place yet for a man seeking employment.

A prominent lumberman said to us the other day, "The men about Bellefonte and elsewhere will be at quite a loss for information as to the location of unseated lands in Centre county since the death of Mr. Joseph Devling," but we say call on our townsman, J. Cleaver, who is prepared with drafts and many years experience to give any information desired in the line of surveying.

Dr. J. M. Blair has had quite a nice veranda constructed on iron brackets on the front of his house on Union St, which we think will be an excellent place for political speakers to get onto this fall and proclaim for General Beaver.

Remove the Division Fences.

It pleases us wonderfully to notice that there is a growing disposition among our citizens to remove the unsightly division fences which separate their premises from those of their neighbors. Notwithstanding such fences may be of the most ornate kind, they do not look as well as does a continuous and unbroken extent of green lawn, relieved only by bushes, shrubs or flowering plants. So far as we have noticed the pioneers in this innovation in Bellefonte were Major Wm. F. Reynolds and Mr. James Milliken on Linn street. We understand that Mr. E. C. Humes and Mr. Fearon Mann do not intend to renew the division fence between their premises, and other people are discussing the pros and cons of following this example. When the division fences are generally removed from this particular part of the globe, the next move will be to banish the equally odious outside fences. But, that, alas! cannot be done until fences are devoted to their original, real and primitive use, viz, to confine in some suitable enclosure the domestic animals, the keeping of which is necessary for our convenience and happiness.

—That was a most cruel fortune that visited a picnic party at Snow Shoe Intersection on Wednesday. The party consisted of a lovely young lady who teaches in the Presbyterian Sunday school and her class of girls. As all good teachers should, she gave her scholars a day out doors, drinking in the pure ozone and lemonade beneath the green trees, munching dried beef, hard boiled eggs and cake. The enjoyment was unmixed until about 11 o'clock when that sudden shower came on. The party took shelter in the most protected places, hoping that the rain would cease, but it continued with exasperating persistency and increased violence, until the disappointed party were compelled to flee with baskets and buckets and fragments of provisions to the kindly shelter of neighboring dwellings, where they made the best they could of their plight until they found their way back to town.

The Academy.

At least once each year the REPUBLICAN speaks particularly of the Bellefonte Academy, and is not discouraged by the fact that its words have as yet produced but slight effect. A glance at the list of studies pursued by all who complete the course will afford surprise. And what is more all these studies are pursued thoroughly. All the time of all the term is given to the acquirement of the information they impart. Of late years the Principal has not even indulged in that seemingly necessary concomitant to all educational institutions know as commencement or graduating exercises, although his graduating pupils are prepared to distinguish themselves as are those of few other institutions. But he each year has the proud distinction of sending forth pupils who would be received, should he ask it, into many of the leading colleges to which entrance is most rigorous, without any examination being required. This testimonial as to their preparation is all that would be demanded and prove the magic "open sesame." But he believes the examination the best thing for the young men and invites it. While pupils from pretentious institutions of learning walk hesitatingly up to the College doors, there submit to trying examinations, and are admitted perhaps only on fifty conditions, the graduate of the Bellefonte Academy has only to mention where he came from and he is welcomed. He knows he can pass the examination. It is seldom that he fails to take an honor in his College course, and those who are at all familiar with the Academy know that many students have highly distinguished themselves.

We do not say that the Academy is all that it should be. In appearance, appliances, equipment, etc., it is as sadly behind the age as it is in advance of other institutions in all that is solid and enduring. Principal Hughes as an educator is an enthusiast and bends all his energies to it. The friends of the school should take pride in bringing it up to the standard in other respects. A first class educational institution should be considered almost as important as manufacturing and railroad enterprises.

Services of Prof. Barnard.

We learn from an exchange that Professor L. H. Barnard, professor of civil engineering at the State College of Pennsylvania, visited Newton, Pa., on Saturday, the 5th, in the interest of the state. He procured the services of Mr. William Cornelius to pilot him to the highest peak on the top of Blue ridge, where he located a point suitable to erect a platform or tower above the trees and high enough to be able to see over Black Log mountain and communicate with another tower on Tuscarora or shade mountains. The main object is to determine the latitude and longitude of a series of points extending over the entire state in order that a correct map of the state may be made. The work is being done by the United States Coast and Geological Survey and will be of vast interest to the state. After the work of erecting their signal stations is completed they will be able to communicate from one to the other over the whole state. Heretofore we have not had a correct map of the state, the surveying having been done by townships and counties, then put together afterward which was very incomplete and unsatisfactory. Under these series of stations a correct survey of the state can be made and a satisfactory map of the entire state produced.

—The opportunity for musical instruction and improvement afforded by the presence of Professor Bierly is wonderful, and that many persons are not taking advantage of it is their own misfortune. The Y. M. C. A. have certainly displayed excellent judgment in bringing him here to teach and train those who desire to learn, and certainly this commendable enterprise merits the very strongest support and encouragement. The best musical judges in Bellefonte concede the Professor's excellent qualifications. The learners are acquiring a good knowledge at least of the rudiments, which will inspire them to further study, and those who come only to "swell the chorus" discover that they are gaining new knowledge of music. The oratorio will occur in about two weeks and will be rendered in a style that will delight all. We understand that Prof. Bierly is a native of this county, and his ability as an instructor is a subject for local pride.

Danger Ahead.

The practice among the small boys of jumping on and off the cars at this place has long prevailed and is becoming more common. Fortunately, no accidents occur. But the chances are that there will soon be an accident to record. A boy was killed at Lewisburg on Thursday as the result of this practice.

If such a fatality should occur in Bellefonte a great "hubbub" would be the result. But why not stop it before such serious consequences ensue? Why not arrest the first boy caught jumping on the cars and give him a ducking in the mill race, or march him up the hill to the jail? Parents, your boys are in danger. Take action in time to prevent having them killed or disabled for life.

Severely Injured by a Fall.

On Thursday last John McMahon, of Stone Valley, who was working on Mr. William Hoover's house at Shingletown, near Lemont, fell from the roof to the ground below, a distance of twenty-two feet, injuring himself seriously. He fell within one foot of a paling fence, alighting on his left shoulder. He then endeavored to get on his feet, but fell forward unconscious. He was carried into a close room where he remained a long time before medical assistance was procured. When Dr. Moyer arrived he soon succeeded in bringing the man back to consciousness, and after skillful treatment the man was able to return to his home. He weighs 160 pounds, and the chances are that he would have been killed had the force of the fall not been broken by a board with which he came in contact on the way down. There are several bruises on his breast, caused by contact with the board.

Officers Elected.

At the regular meeting of the Building and Loan Association, Friday evening, there was a full attendance and the following officers were elected for the year 1886-87:

President, Jas. A. Beaver.
Vice Pres., Jas. A. McClain.
Treas., J. P. Harris.
Solicitor, E. M. Blanchard.
Secretary, G. L. Potter.
Directors, C. M. Bower, E. S. Dorworth, F. E. Bible, C. Smith, W. R. Jenkins, J. C. Weaver.

—We believe that at sunset Thursday, the Jewish Feast of Weeks, or Pentecost, ended. It was ushered in at sunset Tuesday evening, the 8th. The command for its observance is given in the Book of Leviticus, chapter 23, verses 15-21, and in other portions of the Pentateuch. In Palestine it is the period of the Spring harvest, and was especially marked in the time of the Temple by an offering typical of the first wheat gathering. According to Hebrew tradition, based on certain sentences of the Scriptures, the Ten Commandments were proclaimed by God from the summit of Mount Sinai on the sixth day of the third month, from the exodus of Israel from Egypt.

—A dispatch from Huntingdon says that the strike of the soft coal miners in the West Broad Top district begun about ten days ago, has since extended to the East Broad Top region at Robertsdale, where all men are out for fifty cents per ton. Not a ton of coal is now mined in the district, and the Rock Hill Coal and Iron Company and the East Broad Top Railroad are obliged to get their coal from other quarters to keep their furnaces and railroads in operation. At West Broad Top all the men are out with the exception of those at the mines of Sweet and Brown.

—A temperance meeting was held in the Rink on Thursday evening, conducted by Rev. James P. Hughes. We believe it is the intention of the temperance people to hold meetings regularly in the Rink on Thursday evenings, the leaders to be chosen from among the ministers or other prominent temperance people of the town.

—Harry Schroyer has retired from the store of J. A. Harper & Co., leaving Mr. Brouse and Mr. Harper to attend to the business. All these gentlemen are energetic and full of business and will attract all the trade that is going. We have not learned what Harry Schroyer intends to do.

—Jimmie Kinsloe, the Western Union Messenger, received from the company Saturday a handsome cap to wear in warm weather. It will create quite a sensation on the street.

—Chas. H. Rich was married to Miss Kate A. Quiggle on Thursday evening at Pine Station, Clinton county. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Quiggle.

—George Rowan, the young boy who was seriously hurt by falling from a box car near Gerberich, Hale & Co.'s mill on Thursday evening, is still suffering greatly.

—The paint on the residence of A. G. Curtin Jr., was applied by Mr. S. H. Orris, of Milesburg. That it is skillfully done all will agree.

To restore sense of taste, smell or hearing use Ely's Cream Balm. It cures all cases of Catarrh, Hay Fever, Colds in the Head, Headache and Deafness. It is doing wonderful work. Do not fail to procure a bottle, as in it lies the relief you seek. It is easily applied with the finger. Price 50c. at druggists.

Mr. P. M. Barber, has used Ely's Cream Balm for catarrh in his family and commends it very highly. A lady is recovering the sense of smell. A Tunkhannock lawyer, known to many of our readers, says he was cured of deafness,—Pittston, Pa., Gazette.

—As a reader and reciter of Shakespeare Rev. Chas. T. Steck is the finest that has ever been in Bellefonte.

You have often Seen Women with marked blueness or paleness of face, vitalized appetites, and a craving for unwholesome food. These are signs of a disordered liver, and the trouble must be corrected or worse results are sure to follow. Husbands and fathers cannot afford to treat this matter lightly. Dr. Kennedy's "Favorite Remedy," which dispels liver disease, costs less than sick wives and daughters. You will find it a very profitable investment.

Wives! Mothers! Daughters!

BE YOUR OWN PHYSICIAN! A lady who was for years a sufferer from Female Complaints and weaknesses, so common to her sex, and despaired of being cured, finally found remedies which completely cured her, after all else had failed. Dividing the State.

PITTSBURG, June 9.—The Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers, in recognition of the fact that nearly all of its wage troubles come from Eastern Pennsylvania, has decided to appoint an organization for that section. They have been assured by the western manufacturers that if they should be placed on an equality with their eastern competitors the wage troubles would not be so frequent and their contests so long and bitter.

A Walking Skeleton.

Mr. E. Springer, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., writes: I was afflicted with lung fever and abscess on lungs and reduced to a walking skeleton. Got a free trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, which did me so much good that I bought a dollar bottle. After using three bottles found myself once more a man, completely restored to health, with a hearty appetite, and a gain in flesh of 48 lbs."

AN EXTRAORDINARY OFFER.

To All Wanting Employment.

We want Live, Energetic and Capable Agents in every county in the United States and Canada, to sell a patent article of great merit, ON ITS MERITS. An article having a large sale, paying over 100 per cent profit, having no competition, and on which the agent is protected in the exclusive sale by a deed given for each and every county he may secure from us. With all these advantages to our agents and the fact that it is an article that can be sold to every householder, it might not be necessary to make an "EXTRAORDINARY OFFER" to secure good agents at once, but we have concluded to make it to show, not only our confidence in the merits of our invention, but in its salability by any agent that will handle it with energy. Our agents now at work are making from $150 to $600 a month clear and this fact makes it safe for us to make our offer to all who are out of employment. Any agent that will give our business a thirty days' trial and fail to clear at least $100 in this time, ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all goods unsold to us and we will refund the money paid for them. Any agent or general agent who would like ten or more counties and work them through sub-agents for ninety days and fail to clear at least $750 ABOVE ALL EXPENSES, can return all unsold and get their money back. No other employer of agents ever dared to make such offers, nor would we if we did not know that we have agents now making more than double the amount we guaranteed; and but two sales a day would give a profit of over $125 a month, and that one of our agents took eighteen orders in one day. Our large descriptive circulars explain our offer fully, and these we wish to send to everyone out of employment who will send us three one cent stamps for postage. Send at once and secure the agency in time for the boom, and go to work on the terms named in our extraordinary offer. We would like to have the address of all the agents, sewing machine solicitors and carpenters in the country, and ask any reader of this paper who reads this offer, to send us at once the name and address of all such they know. Address at once, or you will lose the best chance ever offered to those out of employment to make money. RENNER MANUFACTURING CO., 116 Smithfield St., Pittsburg, Pa.

BILIOUSNESS.

Bilious symptoms invariably arise from indigestion, such as furred tongue, vomiting of bile, giddiness, sick headache, irregular bowels. The liver secretes the bile and acts like a filter or sieve, to cleanse impurities of the blood. By irregularity in its action or suspensions of its functions, the bile is liable to overflow into the blood, causing jaundice, sallow complexion, yellow eyes, bilious diarrhœa, a languid, weary feeling and many other distressing symptoms. Biliousness may be properly termed an affection of the liver, and can be thoroughly cured by the grand regulator of the liver and biliary organs, BURDOCK BLOOD BITTERS. Act upon the stomach, bowels and liver, making healthy bile and pure blood, and opens the culverts and sluiceways for the outlet of disease. Sold everywhere and guaranteed to cure.

FEARFULLY COMMON.

Kidney Complaints Among Both Sexes and All Ages A Brilliant Recovery.

There is something startling in the rapid increase of kidney disease among the American people within a few years past. Many causes peculiar to certain classes tend to produce and aggravate these troubles—as, for example, careless living, overwork and exposure. Dr. David Kennedy, of Rondout, N. Y., is often congratulated on the exceptional success of his medicine called "Favorite Remedy" in arresting and radically curing these most painful and dangerous disorders. Proofs of this, like the following, are constantly brought to his attention, and are published by him for the sake of thousands of other sufferers whom he desires to reach and benefit. The letter, therefore, may be of vital importance to you or to some one whom you know. It is from one of the best known and popular druggists in the fine and growing city from which he writes, where those interested may find Mr Crawford at his place of business on the corner of Main and Union streets:

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., March 22, 1884.

Dr. David Kennedy, Rondout, N. Y.

DEAR SIR: For ten years I had been afflicted with kidney disease in its most acute form. What I suffered must be left to the imagination, for no one can appreciate it only those who have gone through it. I resorted to many physicians and to many different kinds of treatment, and spent a great deal of money, only to find myself older and worse than ever. I may say that I used twenty-five bottles of a preparation widely advertised as a specific for this precise sort of troubles, and found it entirely useless—at least in my case. Your "FAVORITE REMEDY"—I say it with a perfect recollection of all that was done for me besides—is the only thing that did me the slightest good, and I am happy to admit it gave me permanent relief. I have recommended "FAVORITE REMEDY" to many people for kidney disease, and they all agree with me in saying that DR. DAVID KENNEDY'S FAVORITE REMEDY has not its equal in the wide world for this distressing and often fatal complaint. Use this letter as you deem best for the benefit of others. Yours, &c.,

Local Department.

—Friday night was grand.

—Sunday last was Whit Sunday.

—This is the finest period of the year.

—Fourteen wagons in market Saturday morning.

—Only one week more for the days to grow longer.

—Sunday was decidedly hot, "Tiny" Smith said so.

—Lawrence county Democrats want A. G. Curtin nominated for Governor.

—Green beans and new potatoes now contribute their attractions to the dinner bill-of-fare.

—Mr. William Adams, manager of the Western Union telegraph office at Clearfield, died on Sunday, of consumption.

—Those who heard Miss Grove sing in rehearsal Monday evening are enthusiastic in praise of her voice and artistic execution.

—At Dr. Theo. S. Christ's place, near Lemont, he is erecting an extensive wagon shed and corn crib. The building is 40x24ft.

—There is much to lead us to believe that the concert next Friday evening will be one of the most enjoyable ever given in this place.

—We omitted to mention on Monday that among the exercises in the Methodist church Sunday afternoon was the baptism of nine infants.

—The oratorio concert will occur on the 24th inst. We believe the production to be rendered at that time is "Henry Farmer's Mass."

—The large house along the railroad north of High street is brightening in appearance under the influence of a fresh application of paint.

—The mine bank of Brew & McClain, near Lemont, is being operated quite actively. A new steam washer was recently put in and does good work.

—The seventeenth anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. of Altoona was celebrated in the Second Lutheran church, of that city, Tuesday evening

—A new lawn tennis court is being laid out on the north side of East Curtin street, where, we suppose, certain young folks will assemble to play.

—We were glad to welcome to town the Washington Cornet Band Saturday morning. It does one good to hear real band music once in a while.

—We are sorry to hear that a little son of Mr. John Lane is ill with scarlet fever. His little daughter, Patty, who has been ill for several days, is improving.

—We were told by a gentleman Tuesday that he could build such a school house as the people need for $10,000 and is ready to undertake the contract.

—The fresh smell and bright appearance of the white paint on the building occupied by Dr. A. Hibler impresses us with the belief that the painter's brush has been applied there recently.

—Miss Sue Jack, of Baalsburg, visited Bellefonte Wednesday. The handle of the umbrella she carried was a curiosity. It has a dog's head on it and is an exact facsimile of one carried by Mrs. Cleveland.

—One great and beneficent act has come to the front under the new administration. On Tuesday evening the post-office was scrubbed most thoroughly and looked as clean and bright as possible Wednesday morning.

—An old gentleman named Robinson, while walking along the railroad, Monday afternoon, fell suddenly to the ground, but on being lifted to his feet soon revived and was led to his home. He is said to be quite ill to-day.

—On Monday we were informed that the Grand Army post at Stormstown will hold a festival next Saturday evening. If this is so we hope the festival will be attended by all the people around there, and that it will be a rousing success.

—An adjourned meeting of the Presbytery of Huntingdon was held in Altoona on Tuesday, for the purpose of ordaining two licentiates to the full work of the Gospel ministry. Rev. William Laurie of this place preached the ordination sermon.

—A beautiful night blooming cereus opened its petals and emitted its delightful fragrance on Tuesday night between 11 and 12 o'clock at the residence of Gen. James A. Beaver. It was duly admired by a company of friends who came to witness the interesting performance.

—On Wednesday, the 9th, Rev. Chas. Steck visited the State College at the request of Prof. McKee, the teacher of English Literature, and gave the pupils a talk on Shakespeare and his characters, accompanying his remarks with a few recitations. A letter from the College says that Rev. Mr. Steck's entertainment was enthusiastically received by teachers and pupils and it is long since any event at the College has so delighted the young gentlemen. His remarks on Hamlet were especially entertaining. His recitations included selections from Hamlet' Richard III and Henry VIII.

CHILDREN'S DAY

OBSERVED IN THE METHODIST AND PRESBYTERIAN CHURCHES—FLORAL DECORATIONS, EXCELLENT MUSIC, ADDRESSES BY THE YOUNG FOLKS AND OLD FOLKS.

There is nothing more delightful than a day in June, and the second Sunday (June 13) was as near perfection as it could be. Of course, some people said that it was hot, but who would want a cold day in June? It is when the sun is shining and the air is just floating lazily along and one has to move a fan to get enough oxygen to breathe that flowers look prettiest and music sounds sweetest and Summer clothes are most attractive. The ladies (and some of the gentlemen) of have brought the science of church decoration to a high degree of perfection. It is said that Mr. David Lieb had an important part in arranging the decorations of the church on Sunday, and we believe it, because he has been known to do such things before. The effect was just about as fine as anything we have ever seen, which is saying much, because the Methodist church has not been decorating for so very many years, whereas some churches have been decorating for hundreds of years, and it is a part of their theology to bring "the fir tree, the pine tree and the box together to make the House of the Lord glorious."

This, too, was a day set apart for the special purpose of teaching and instructing the children and showing what advancement they have made, and it was fitting to make the occasion just as gay and glad as possible.

There were arches of spruce around the alcove in the rear of the pulpit and in the centre of this there was a superb pyramid of flowers, several feet high. The fresh, green spruce also decorated the space behind the choir and the railing in front, while bright floral bouquets were placed at appropriate places along the front of the church. Under each gas fixture along the sides of the church was suspended a sphere formed of laurel blossoms.

A platform was erected in front of the pulpit for the infant class, where the little folks could all see and be seen. The little girls wore white dresses. Mrs Woodcock, their teacher, and one or two other ladies, were near them The children maintained perfect order and performed all their parts charmingly.

The choir sang as a voluntary, "Praise the Lord." In the solo parts were heard two or three voices which, though not strong, were musical and sweet. After congregational singing of hymn 293, Mr. Stott offered prayer. Master Charley Noll, son of Mr. John Noll, made an address of welcome in good style and Mr. Stott led a responsive reading on "The Value of Wisdom." Hymn 151 was followed by an "Address to the flowers," by Miss Annie Stott.

The responsive reading, "Sources of Wisdom," was led by Rev. Dr. Monroe, the pastor, who directed all the exercises of the afternoon. Miss Emma Horkheimer told in choice language the origin and design of Children's Day, and Dr. Monroe made a voluntary speech, the subject of which was the propriety, just at this juncture, of taking a collection for the Board of Education. This was duly accomplished. After Rev. Mr. Woodcock had conducted a responsive reading on the "Natural Symbols of Wisdom," a "greeting" address was made by Miss Elsie Horkhiemer. Misses Emma and Elsie are daughters of Mr. Adam Horkhiemer and are very bright young ladies.

Several songs were most delightfully rendered by the infant class, and among those of their number who made speeches were Birdie Noll, Wallace Reeder, and Helen Hastings. They also recited the Apostles Creed and answered difficult questions in the catechism. Mrs. Woodcock, their teacher, rendered a solo which was remarkably sweet and shows that the lady has a pleasing voice.

Among other children who spoke in a manner that attracted attention and admiration were Lizzie DeWitt, Harry Irvin, Charley Everhart and Roland Curtin. While all of these were excellent, the last-mentioned spoke most distinctly.

The attendance at this gathering was so large that it was difficult to provide sitting room for all.

OTHER SERVICES.

It might also be added that in the morning, Rev. Dr. Monroe's sermon was on the subject of the day's observances and at the evening service addresses of a kindred character were made by several gentleman of the church and Sabbath-school, among them that of John G. Love, Esq., being spoken of as unusually good.

IN THE PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

the event was duly observed, the children of the Sabbath-school gathering in the church in the morning and being addressed by Rev. Mr. Laurie, the pastor. In the afternoon the services were held in the church and addresses were made by Judge Furst, Gen. Beaver, J. W. Gephart, Esq., and others.

The decorations were pretty, consisting largely of bouquets of laurel placed along the front of the room. The attendance at both of these services was large.

—The Pennsylvania State Teachers' Association will meet in Allentown on the 6th and 7th of July.

Our Man about Town—What He Saw and What He Thinks about It.

He believes that all people should go to church on Sunday. He believes that if people comprehended a little more fully the true idea of church-going the sacred edifices would be full.

Our man believes that the highest and most dominant characteristic of a Christian should be love of God and love of fellow-man. If we don't love the creature we will not love the Creator. All high-toned airs and show in the holy temple of worship are silly sins. Welcome strangers to churches. Shake hands affectionately with them. Let them believe we care for their souls.

Our man believes that the only true pride is self-respect. He believes that there are some people in Bellefonte who count themselves a little bit too good to speak to others. This is a true indication of cod-fish, shoddy aristocracy. It is a sign that the person who acts that way is some one who was awful poor and became rich suddenly and don't know how to act.

Our man has had much experience and is immensely wise. He is metropolitan. He was moved in all social and other circles and has observed that the person who has been rich for generations, who is to the manor born, is not near so likely to have an objectionable pride about him as has the codfish aristocrat. The true gentleman or lady will treat all alike.

He knows there is no dearth of musical talent in Bellefonte; indeed, there is a superfluity. The scarce element is harmony. The different musicians refuse to harmonize. But of this it is useless to speak. The cure is hopeless.

Some people say, "Why don't you tell us all about the sale of the ore lands and the erection of a furnace?" Well, we must answer that the gentleman who is most directly concerned in the sale personally informed us that when it is consummated he would at once let us know, but all previous reports are unauthorized and unreliable. He has not reported and therefore the sale cannot be considered settled. Though we have no doubt and he has no doubt that the sale will be made and that it will result in a great benefit to Bellefonte.

Never before in the remembrance of our man has the near approach of Fourth of July attracted so little attention. But he believes that Bellefonte will enjoy a quiet and happy holiday. The real day occurs on Sunday and our man has not yet determined whether to fire off his cracker on Saturday or Monday.

Our man, when he reads some of Joe Furey's editorials in the Watchman, is impressed with the idea that Joe believes that some of the Democratic Generals composed the entire army and that there was no such thing as the patriotic common soldiers who fought for their homes and firesides, and fought the enemy because the rampant spirit of rebellion was committing indignities and encroachments upon the North which must be subdued. Indeed, these southern sympathizers who live in the North, although twenty-two years have elapsed, do not yet seem to be able to comprehend the exalted patriotism of the loyal north—especially that of the soldier of the ranks. We pity Joe, but cannot prescribe a cure at present.

The Game at State College.

The Bellefonte base ball nine went to State College on Saturday afternoon to play base ball. They had no special reason to believe that the College people desired a fair game, but they felt confidence in their own powers and believed that if they were given any chance at all they could easily win the game. The result shows that for ways that are base in playing base ball the College nine and their supporters have a perfect right to the championship.

We have not heard one person who was present express any other opinion than one of condemnation at the open insults offered by the crowd to the Bellefonte nine and to all who came from Bellefonte. The Bellefonters, we are told, were charged 15 cents admission to the ground, while others were admitted free.

The Bellefonte boys controlled themselves very well and when the 6th inning began the score was 7 to 2 in their favor. But this being only the second game in which they have indulged, the taunts of the crowd "rattled" some of them, giving their opponents the advantage, and the big score of 18 to 11 in favor of the College was made in the closing innings. A return game will be played next Saturday, in which the visitors will be treated fairly and shown how to act courteously.

Tribute of Respect.

WHEREAS, The great master in His alwise providence and infinite wisdom, called to his long home our faithful and worthy brother, Wm. H. Bloom, on Thursday, May the 20th after a short illness at the age of 65 years; therefore, we deem it proper to give our expressions of his worth by the following resolutions:

Resolved, That by the removal of Brother Bloom from this life to a higher sphere, Washington Grange, No. 157, P. of H., sustains a loss of a true and worthy member, the church an active and zealous worker, the community a warm-hearted, sympathetic friend and a good citizen, the family one whom they will long remember with the tenderest emotion.

Resolved, That the Grange tender its sincere and fraternal sympathies to the family of the deceased brother and commend them to the Great Master, Who worketh all things together for good, Who can sooth and soften all our sorrows with His tender love.

Resolved, That our charter be draped in mourning for the space of sixty days.

Resolved, that a copy of the above be sent to the family of the deceased brother and a copy furnished the Farmers Friend and the county papers for publication, and be entered on the minutes of our Grange.

Washington Grange, No. 157, P. of H. Centre Co., Pa., June 12, 1886.

MRS. KATE YOUNG,
JOHN T. MCCORMICK.

Was It a Ghost?

The Philipsburg Journal says that about 1 o'clock Tuesday morning Officers Lehr and Simler, of that place, fired several shots at a man who was seen prowling around the stone bank in a suspicious manner, but neither of the shots took effect, nor was the party arrested. Two hours later the same individual was shot at again in another part of the town, but with no more success than in the former instance. The midnight prowler is supposed to have had nothing on his feet but a pair of stockings, or at most a pair of light slippers, as he glided along without making any noise whatever. He was a large man, if a man at all, and is thought to have been on robbery intent.

A Historic and Poetic Home.

At Rock Forge in this county resides Mr. John Cramer. He lives in a large substantial blue stone house erected in the year 1812 by Gen. Philip Benner. After building it Gen. Benner lived in it for a long time. The place is also known as the Waddle farm, having once been in the possession of the late Mordecai Waddle.

Gen. Benner, who built the handsome house, was a very wealthy man—rich especially in lands. Of a property of 1800 acres in that neighborhood he left three legacies of 600 acres each, and of another property including 900 acres, he gave a similar number of legacies of 300 acres each. He also owned the Rock Forges. The country around there is highly picturesque and delightful, pleasing the poet's fancy and suggesting romantic themes to the novelist. Descendants of the General live in that vicinity There is his son, Henry, who lives with his own son Harvey. Henry is enjoying old age, being now more than eighty years.

But, to return to the old house. Its present occupant is a good farmer and has the surrounding property in a state of high cultivation. Mr. Cramer says he does not use, and does not like, artificial or patent fertilizers and can give reasons therefor by the hour. But we cannot relate them here and now.

—J. A. Finkbinder photographed the Children's Day decorations in the Methodist church. One photograph represents only the decorations in the rear of the pulpit while the other includes all the decorations in the front part of the church. They are now displayed in Fleming's window.

She is much pleased with her home in the latter place and urges her brother to join her out there, remarking as an inducement that the "Yellowstone river is full of fish."

—On the 26th of August next the Prohibition party of Pennsylvania will meet in Harrisburg to nominate candidates, respectively, for governor, lieutenant governor, auditor general, secretary of internal affairs and congressman-at-large. The convention will remain in session two days. The basis of representation will be four delegates for each representative in the legislature. In the call for the convention, it is recommended that an equal number of men and women be sent as delegates.

The Late Mrs. Charlotte Irvine.

An article in the Altoona Tribune contains extended reference to the late Mrs. Charlotte Irvine, of Hollidaysburg, whose death in that place occurred on last Thursday morning and was noted in the Daily News of Friday. We copy only the part which alludes to the lady's residence in this county. It says:

"When the deceased was quite young her parents died and left to her care five children all of whom were younger than herself. She was educated in Philadelphia at a young ladies seminary conducted by Miss Smith, a distinguished lady, and the school was celebrated for its superior merits and advantages. At the age of twenty she was united in marriage with Mr. Lot Watson Irvine, of Linden Hall, Centre county, who was at the time one of the leading iron manufacturers of Central Pennsylvania. But this happy union which promised so much of bliss and happiness was destined to be of short duration, and when the mother of three small children, one son and two daughters, at the early age of twenty-four she was left a widow. Her first residence after losing her husband, was in Centre county among the relatives of her husband. These by their sympathy and devotion proved themselves to be true and noble friends whose acts of kindness were never forgotten.

"Mrs. Irvine returned with her family to Hollidaysburg in 1859, where she has since resided, greatly loved and esteemed by all who had the pleasure of her acquaintance. Mrs. Irvine was taken ill in the month of September, 1885, and was at times in a very feeble condition. She however, rallied during the winter and was able on several occasions to visit some of her friends. She herself had hopes at this time of final recovery. Early in May she began to decline again and gradually grew worse, her old disease, which was an organic trouble of the heart, clinging to her; but fortunately she retained entire consciousness up to the moment of dissolution. Owing to the nature of her disease she could not lie in bed. For about three weeks prior to death she maintained a sitting posture, and while thus sitting in her chair her true Christian spirit took its flight."

—When a representative of the paper visited Keller's Woolen Mills, at Houserville the other day, he was shown through the building. The machinery was not in operation at the time, but it was started up for his special benefit and Mr. Ira Lyle, who superintends the work on the first floor, conducted him through the mill, and he received very kind attentions from all the employes. The woolen mills is a useful and prosperous institution and it is strange that two attempts to burn it have recently been made by incendiaries. The weaving and winding are in progress on the third floor, Mr. R. C. Palmer attending to the former and Mr. Irvin Wirts to the latter. There are eight persons at work in the mill and two wagons are employed in collecting materials for work and delivering goods. In this building the solicitor received two new subscribers for the Fountain and one for the Republican.

—The Blair county Republican convention, in Hollidaysburg, Monday, nominated John A. Lemon for Congress; Edmund Shaw and Samuel B. Isenberg for assembly; Martin Bell, Jr., for district attorney; Charles R. Downing, for register and recorder; David Over for county treasurer; John Loudon for director of the poor; W. H. Glenn, for coroner; W. L. Kennedy, for senatorial delegate, and Messrs. D. G. McCollough and T. D. Wilkins for representative delegates to the State convention. The convention resolved to favor the candidacy of the soldier and patriot, General James A. Beaver, for governor, E. A. Montooth, for lieutenant governor, Thomas McCamant, Esq., for auditor general, and Colonel Chili W. Hazzard, for congressman-at-large.

—E. B. Westfall, accompanied by his daughter and several of her young friends, came to Bellefonte Wednesday in a special car, on the Lemont road. The visit was unannounced, but the beauty of the young ladies attracted the attention of our numerous gallant young gentlemen at once and they were soon cordially received and shown to some of the interesting parts of Bellefonte in the vicinity of the depot. Among the gentlemen was Mr. Erastus Wright, Mr. Westfall's confidential clerk.

—Whether a Beaver Club will be formed to go to Harrisburg to be present at the Republican State Convention or not, it is certain that a very large delegation of citizens will be there. At least fifty gentlemen have already expressed their determination to be present, and it is probable that more than that number will conclude to go.
